20,000 REDS FALL IN FINN TRAP

Locke Runs Into First Rebuff In Police Request

Council Group Turns Down Mayor; Hikes Appropriations.

Mayor William J. Locke had met his first rebuff at the hands of city council today as the finance committee turned down the request of Locke and Police Chief Meade K. Bates for a $5,000 hike in the police department budget to hire four additional officers.

The committee approved a draft of the 1940 appropriation ordinance calling for an allocation of $299,697 to the general fund, which is about $22,000 more than was allocated in 1939.

Approval Due Monday.

Final approval of the bill by council as a whole is expected Monday night at a special meeting called by the mayor.

The measure was drafted last night at a meeting of council's finance committee with the mayor, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, City Solicitor Marion D. Ward and Council President Howard G. Miller. Members of the finance committee are Fred Miller, C. N. Shultz and George Berg.

The committee's decision to turn down the request for additional funds that would have set the stage for establishment of a traffic squad in the police department was made during a committee caucus which lasted for nearly an hour.

Later Shultz told the mayor that council could not see its way clear to make the additional appropriation.

Locke's only comment was that it was in "council's hands" and that there wasn't much he could do about it.

In addition to the general fund, included in the measure was a fixed figure of $117,011.07 for bond retirement and interest charges to be met this year. This is $15,500 under the $132,542 needed for that purpose in 1939.

Pares Allocations.

The committee sharply pared the allocations from maximum amounts of money Kelley had estimated might be available for operations in 1940.

Kelley's estimate was $742,782 for all purposes except bond retirement. The committee in making allocations distributed $612,606.

Morale Booster

General L. Z. Mekhlis, Soviet Russia's highest political army commissar, is reported en route to the front in Finland where he will attempt to build up the morale of the Russian troops. Moscow, it is said, has decided that six weeks of almost constant defeat at the hands of Finland's tiny army has seriously affected the spirit of the Red troops.

BRICKER RULES FOR 'VALJEAN'

Refuses Oklahoma's Demands to Return Fugitive Who 'Made Good' in Ohio.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Gov. John W. Bricker refused today to authorize the extradition to Oklahoma of Carlton B. Chilton, 44-year-old Clevelander, who "made good" after escaping from an Oklahoma reformatory in 1913.

Governor Bricker said in a three-page letter that his decision was based on Chilton's "good conduct" record.

"It is my honest conviction that Mr. Chilton by his own conduct during the past quarter century has clearly shown his own rehabilitation and a positive disposition to live as a peaceful, industrious and law-abiding citizen," Bricker wrote.

"If the failure of the state of Ohio to return Mr. Chilton to the state of Oklahoma would mean the destruction of the trusty system of the state of Oklahoma, then, as in such event, his return might be justified on the basis of a greater good.

"It seems to me, however, that recognition on the part of the states involved of the exemplary manner in which Mr. Chilton has lived since the time of his escape

TWO BURNED

Mother, Daughter Seriously Injured at Ashland.

ASHLAND—A young Ashland mother and her three-year-old daughter are in Samaritan hospital seriously burned at 6:45 p. m. Thursday when a can of kerosene, with which the mother was attempting to start a fire in a coal stove, exploded.

The mother, Mrs. Chester Leiter, 28, Lincoln street, received severe burns about the head, neck and face, and her daughter, Rose Marie, was badly burned about the body, hospital attendants said.

Slightly burned by the explosion was a son Billy, 7, a three-month-old baby in a crib, and another young son escaped injury.

According to Ashland firemen, Mrs. Leiter's clothing was set afire by the stove blast. Blinded, she ran around the small room, and bumped into her daughter, igniting the child's clothing.

Frank Zimmerman, a neighbor, heard their cries, ran to the house and beat out the flames around both.

GETS LIFE TERM IN WIFE KILLING

Ohioan Convicted of Murder by Jury Who Urge Mercy.

LANCASTER, O. —(U.P.)— Fred C. Moore, 53, Pickerington, O., power plant foreman, today was under sentence of life imprisonment in Ohio penitentiary for the murder of his wife.

A jury of 10 men and two women convicted him of first degree murder but recommended mercy yesterday for the slaying last May of his wife, Bertha, in their home at Pickerington.

The verdict carries a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment. Moore was arrested at Massillon three days after the body of his wife was found in an upstairs bedroom.

Court Rules Skater Must Defend Suit Asking $92,000.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Sonja Henie, the skater, will have to defend the $92,000 suit brought against her by Dannis A. Scanlon who claims he was her business manager, under a ruling from Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente today.

Valente denied the skater's petition to dismiss the suit. Scanlon claims the amount is due for services he performed as Sonja's business manager.

CONVICTED IN ASSAULT CASE IN 10 MINUTES

Maximum Sentence Imposed by Court After Jury Reaches Speedy Verdict.

JUDGE SCORES DEFENDANT

Tells Former WPA Worker He's 'Dangerous to Society and Womanhood.'

Convicted of assaulting a 14-year-old Bellville school girl by a jury which deliberated only 10 minutes, George Call, 30, former Sharon township WPA worker, late yesterday was sentenced to three to 20 years in Ohio penitentiary by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

The sentence is the maximum for a conviction for rape, and Judge Huston said he would oppose a parole for Call at the end of three years.

A jury of eight men and four women found Call guilty of rape following a six-hour trial during which one girl testified that he assaulted her on a country road near Bellville in November and two others said he had attempted to lure them to lonely sections near Bellville and Butler.

Call had been indicted also on charges of kidnaping and attempted rape, but Prosecutor G. W. Marriott asked for conviction only on the rape charge. The kidnaping charge was based on his alleged abduction of a Bellville girl as she walked along the road.

Before he passed sentence, Judge Huston scored Call as "dangerous to society and womanhood."

Lured Girls Into Car.

Pointing out that Call had lured two 14-year-old Bellville girls into his car, Judge Huston asserted that "men like you make it unsafe for women and girls to walk along the highways and accept rides. You have no regard for the chastity of women and your conduct warns small girls that they must fear men."

Judge Huston commended Atty. James Hoffman, who had been appointed to defend Call, for his fair handling of the case.

"Mr. Hoffman, with no basis on

UP TO CONGRESS

Roosevelt Says Lawmakers to Consider Help for Finns.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt said today he had asked congressional leaders of both parties to work out the problem of giving assistance to Finland.

The chief executive had disclosed Tuesday that he was discussing the matter of aid to Finland with the state department.

Asked at his press conference today whether the conversations had resulted in any decisions, he replied in the negative.

He went on to say, however, that the question of providing assistance to the Finns ought not to become one of partisan politics.

In other words, he said, the Russian attack on Finland, the destitution of large numbers of people, and the need for maintaining Finnish independence, should not be party matter over here.

State Reconsiders, Puts Okay On Early Richland Fair Date

The Richland county fair board had won state approval today for July 31 to Aug. 3 as its 1940 fair date, making the Richland fair one of the earliest in Ohio again this year.

Approval of the date set last month by the board was announced at the annual Ohio Fair Managers' meeting in Columbus at which W. H. Shryock, Mansfield, was honored for his 47 years of fair board membership, believed a record in the state. During this period Mr. Shryock served as secretary of the board for 23 years and president for eight years.

Superintendent of grounds and a member of the fair board, Mr. Shryock was recognized in a testimonial read yesterday at the fair managers' session by one of the officials of the state association.

The aged fair worker, unable to attend the meeting, will be 82 years old Feb 12. He lives at 51 Arthur avenue.

Previously turned down by the state board of agriculture, the Richland county fair date was approved after it was found that it would not conflict with other fairs in this section. The date is a week later than the 1939 fair.

At Scene of West Virginia Coal Mine Disaster

Jesse Aquino, one of 47 miners who escaped being entombed when a blast sealed 91 fellow miners in a shaft of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal company near Bartley, W. Va., is pictured above as he prepared to return to the mine and aid in rescue work. Aquino is seen at left, face smudged and holding a cup. The entrance to the mine is at the right. Rescuers have found 17 bodies.

Hopes Fade for 91 In Mine; 17 Bodies Found

Rescuers Continue Digging But Fears Increase That Terrific Blast, Gas Killed All Of Entombed Miners

BULLETIN

BARTLEY, W. Va.—(INS—All hope that 74 men still trapped in the No. 1 mine might be rescued was reported to have been abandoned today. Should the report prove true, the death toll would reach 91.

(By Associated Press)

BARTLEY, W. Va.—Finding of 17 additional bodies in the explosion-wrecked Bartley No. 1 mine early today increased fear that 91 trapped men had perished.

Rescue crews found the badly mangled bodies, bringing the known dead to 21.

Rescuers continued digging on the possibility of finding some 30 men alive.

"I am afraid that finding of the bodies means the other men in the mine also will be found dead," said G. J. Stollings, general manager of Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal corporation which operates the workings.

It took approximately 38 hours to tunnel through tons of slate, rock and coal to where the 91 men were caught 600 feet underground by a blast mine inspectors said might have resulted when the miners cut into some abandoned gas-filled entry. Forty-seven diggers in the eastern section of the mine escaped.

SAVED BY ICE

Crippled Air Liner Slides to Safety on Frozen River.

MOLINE, Ill. — (AP) — Ten-inch ice and some dexterous piloting saved five passengers and a crew of three from possible death early today when a United Air lines plane made a forced landing on a narrow stretch of the Rock river.

The plane, with one of its two motors disabled, slid across the ice and smashed into a concrete retaining wall on the river bank. Four passengers and the two pilots sustained only minor injuries.

The 14-passenger sleeper, enroute from New York to San Francisco, developed motor trouble about midnight while near Iowa City, Ia.

The lone functioning motor pulled the plane over tops of trees and a concrete wall on the river bank before the craft mushed to the ice.

FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Conservation Official, Hurt in Crash, Suffers Gangrene.

SPRINGFIELD, O. —(INS— H. A. "Buck" Rider, assistant state conservation commissioner, is suffering from gas gangrene after amputation of his right leg and remained in critical condition today, attaches of the Springfield City hospital reported.

The 44-year-old sportsman, who was injured Tuesday when his car skidded into a tree, was placed in an oxygen tent in an effort to prevent him from contracting pneumonia, his attendants said.

BETTMAN TO RUN

4 CARS CRASH ON ICY ROADS

Only One Hurt as Machines Skid; Colder Tonight, Rain or Snow Due Tomorrow.

Ice and fog which were blamed for three traffic accidents late yesterday in the Mansfield area are due to leave tonight as clear and colder weather moves into the state, the weatherman said.

The fair weather won't last long, however, for rain or snow was forecast for Saturday night.

With temperatures above freezing, snow on streets and highways turned to ice yesterday, creating a traffic hazard that involved four cars in three accidents on county roads. Only one person was injured, however.

James Price, 44, of, of Martel, O., suffered head injuries Thursday afternoon when a car in which he was riding skidded from route 30-S near Galion and struck a telephone pole. Eugene Winters, 22, of Martel, the driver, and two other passengers escaped without injuries.

Three men escaped injury Thursday afternoon when a car skidded on the ice on route 39 four miles northwest of Mansfield and turned over after going down an embankment. James F. Bilka, 44, of Shelby, was the driver.

Cars driven by T. F. Nealon, 56, of Columbus; and Willis D. Hipsher, 43, R. D. 1, Crestline, collided on route 39 near Springmill yesterday afternoon, forcing Hipsher's car into a ditch. Nealon said his car skidded on the ice. Neither driver was hurt.

Heavy fog and ice-covered roads were reported in most of Ohio today as temperatures ranged from 30 to 40 degrees above zero. Light snow fell at Wauseon and Bryan in northwestern Ohio.

The temperature in Mansfield was above normal for the first time in more than two weeks, with the 24-hour average at 33.5 degrees as compared with the normal 30-8 degrees.

'Gone With Wind' Comes To City As Road Show Feb. 10

Mansfield will get its first look at "Gone With The Wind" in four weeks when the motion picture that has caused more excitement than any other ever made, comes to the Ohio theater on Feb 10.

The picture will open on Saturday and possibly run for a full week William Dworski, manager, said. Road show admission prices of from 75 cents to $1.10 will prevail as the picture will not be shown at regular theater prices until sometime in 1941.

The film runs three hours and 40 minutes and in addition there is a ten-minute intermission. It has not been decided whether there will be two or three shows a day, Dworski said.

Soviet Division Surrounded By Finnish Forces

Helsinki Says Annihilation To Start At Once; Two Other Columns Of Red Troops Reported Heading Into New Trap Finland Sets Up In North.

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI — Twenty thousand more Russian troops today rushed headlong into a trap which the Finns have just closed on an equal number in the Salla sector.

Latest Finnish reports said a division of 20,000 Red army soldiers were definitely trapped after a long and hard fight in which the jaws of two Finnish columns closed in slowly.

Their annihilation will start at once, and will be completed before a similar division, sent on a rescue mission, can arrive, Finn leaders said.

In a former case in the same area, rescue reinforcements themselves were drawn into the Finnish net and wiped out, and it was believed that the new division hastening westward from Kandalaksha would meet a similar fate.

With a dual Russian offensive in the Petsamo sector of the far north repulsed, latest information in Helsinki indicated that two more Russian divisions are about to be caught in a similar net north of Lake Ladoga.

Thus three Russian divisions already have been wiped out or trapped, eliminating some 60,000 Soviet soldiers from the war, and a further 40,000 seem about to be gorged by the Finns in the south.

Finland's air force today made leaflet "raids" on Leningrad, Baltic port, and other Russian bases in the Baltic region.

Weighing two theories, one that the Russians are giving up all attempts at major offensive until spring, and two, that the Soviets, directed personally by Josef Stalin, have been ordered to press on regardless of the cost, military observers leaned to the latter opinion.

The assaults in the Petsamo region, and the dispatch of Soviet reinforcements to the Salla area tended to show that the "Stalin offensive" theory was the more correct.

Amid the broader campaigns at Petsamo, Salla, and Lake Ladoga, darting Finnish ski patrols continued to harass Soviet lines of communications, slashing deep into Soviet territory and cutting off the detachments vital connections.

Stalin, reported to be directing operations by telephone from the Kremlin, continued his clean-up and reshuffle of the army command and political commissars, on the Finnish front.

Lectures Red Leaders.

At Kronstad, the Russian naval base on the gulf of Finland, Gen. L. Z. Mekhlis, chief army political commissar—a Communist party "watch-dog" over the army—gave a stern lecture to 300 undercommissars and blamed them for the poor morale of the Russian army.

AIR: German Bombers Cruise Over Britain's Ports, Draw Fire

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—German bombing planes cruised over British ports today for the fourth successive day, drawing fierce bursts of anti-aircraft fire as they appeared in cloudless skies above the Thames estuary, the Suffolk coast and off Yorkshire.

The raiders were flying at a high altitude and no air raid warnings were sounded and no bombs dropped.

The air ministry announced that the Royal Air Force, engaged with the Nazis in a tit-for-tat war of feeler thrusts, had made successful scouting flights last night over western and northwestern Germany and over seaplane bases in Helgoland bight.

German bombers meanwhile continued their raids on shipping off the English coast.

Machine gun fire was heard and there were scattered reports of "considerable air activity" over Yorkshire towns.

Germany's aerial inspection of almost the whole British east coast was regarded by air force strategists today as a threat of more destructive visits to come.

In a series of raids at six points from southeast Scotland to the English channel yesterday — the most widespread of the war so far—German fliers attacked only one merchant ship and three trawlers.

They made no attempt to bomb land objectives.

Air experts concluded that the primary object was to photograph the seaboard as a guide for future waves of bombers, perhaps as

NATURE: Storms, Record Cold Acts as Naval Blockade for Finns

(By United Press)

LONDON—Storms and record cold in central and eastern Europe have paralyzed Russia's Black sea ports, as well as freezing the Danube delta, and Denmark's "great belt" channel in the Baltic is threatened by ice, reports said today.

More effectively than any naval blockade, the cold and storms are impeding Germany's supply of raw materials, it was indicated.

The Moscow radio, in a broadcast picked up here last night, reported that a severe storm in the Black sea had paralyzed all navigation. No ship had left a Russian Black sea port since Tuesday, the broadcast said, wireless stations were receiving distress signals and two Russian ships, a freighter and a tanker, had been fighting their way to port for three days in the teeth of a gale.

The temperature at Moscow had reached a record low of 40 degrees below zero.

(German wireless newscasts picked up at New York said there were numerous reports from all over European Russia of people freezing to death, that all rivers were frozen and that even Odessa harbor in the Black sea, was in danger of becoming ice bound. Port traffic was being kept open by means of ice breakers, it was said.)

IN THE RUHL BOOK

BY OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

ONE of the big leagues bosses slightly peeved over the fact that Joe Beggs slipped through his fingers is Cy Slapnicka of the Cleveland Indians, it now develops.

It was revealed in New York this week Beggs, who was recently traded by the Yankees to the Cincinnati Reds for Lee Grissom, was sought by Slapnicka and Connie Mack.

Every time the Yanks asked waivers on the pitcher, Slapnicka and Mack put in a claim for him. Apparently, they got the idea that the Yanks were just fooling and finally, waived on the pitcher.

Well, the Yankees were not fooling, Slapnicka learned to his astonishment.

So, the young pitcher who might have helped solve some of the Indians' pitching problems will wear a Cincinnati uniform next season, and "Slap" will probably moan everytime he hears of the rookie scoring a victory.

Lines Up Savold For Title Scrap

NEW YORK — (AP) — Promoter Mike Jacobs hopes that Joe Louis will defend his heavyweight championship against Lee Savold of Iowa in June or September.

He is not finicky about either month, because he believes that come June or September, Savold, the Des Moines dynamiter, is the only heavyweight in the world who could draw a million-dollar gate with Detroit's dark destroyer.

Because of "Uncle Mike's" yen for a million-dollar gate, he is negotiating for a challengers' clash between Savold, Iowa's "Blond Tiger," and Bob Pastor of New York, who went 20 rounds with Champion Louis before being knocked out in the 21st.

WOOD, WEHRLE SET PACE IN RAIN AT OAKLAND

OAKLAND, Calif. — (AP) — Two players who would be described in horse racing circles as "superior muddiers" set the pace today as a reduced field of 138 teed off in the second round of the $5,000 72-hole Oakland Golf tournament.

Fancy 67's, three under par executed in rain, wind and standing water, put Craig Wood, blond professional from Mamaroneck N. Y., and Willard Wehrle, amateur from Racine, Wis., in front. Nineteen of the 214 starters equalled or bettered par 70.

SAEE OF COLUMBUS TEAM 'PRACTICALLY COMPLETED'

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Negotiations for the sale of the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association to a local syndicate are "practically completed," the Ohio State Journal said today. The Columbus club now is owned by the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

Cardinal officials conferred in Cincinnati yesterday with T. Lee Huntington and Richard T. Rector, Columbus sportsmen.

"If the Red Birds become home owned," the paper said it learned, "a working agreement will be formed with the Cardinals for at least two years."

Junior Heavy Champ Signed

Billy Weidner to Meet Great Mephisto Here Monday.

Mansfield wrestling fans will get their first glimpse of the brand new junior heavyweight champion of the world Monday night in the Armory arena.

He is Billy Weidner of San Francisco, who ascended the throne as the first holder of this title by winning his way through a four-month tournament organized and sponsored by the Midwest Wrestling Association.

* * *

Weidner will wage one of his first defenses of his newly won crown against the challenge of the brilliant mystery man of wrestling, the Great Mephisto.

* * *

Articles signed by both men call for them to wrestle for two best out of three falls with an hour and a half time limit under MWA rules.

This match, one of the most outstanding that can be made in the new 191-pound division, is certainly evidence that the local mat club is bending every effort to give local sports fans the very best to be had. A great supporting card is now being lined up to set the stage for this world's championship feature event.

BELIEVES LOMBARDI WILL SIGN 'REAL SOON'

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Ernie Lombardi's "sit down" strike over his new contract will be comparatively shorter lived than his famous "snooze" at home plate in the final 1939 world series game, according to Cincinnati Baseball club officials.

"I wrote Ernie a letter and I expect to hear from him during the next few days," Warren C. Giles, the Reds' general manager, said last night. "I believe he will sign his 1940 contract real soon."

Crack Renaissance Hoopsters Invade Tyger Court Tonight

Pro Champions to Engage City League All-Star Quintet at 9:15 P. M.

A DEMONSTRATION of the type of basketball presented by the outstanding professional team in the country is on the docket tonight when the highly-touted New York Renaissance quintet invades the Tyger lair.

At 9:15 p. m. today, the famous colored club will face the City league All-Stars at Mansfield high school.

* * *

This game will follow a preliminary tilt between the Isaly Dairys and Raemelton Farm of the Friendly House Senior league.

* * *

The City league team's recent 42 to 39 victory over the New York Celtics establishes the game as one of the outstanding court attractions of the year in Mansfield.

The Rens were organized 16 years ago by Bob Douglas, well-known colored sportsman, and the national pro champions have won the amazing total of 1605 games against 241 defeats.

Prior to winning the world's professional championship in Chicago last March, the Renaissance club notched 196 victories in 200 games.

Outstanding members of the team are Tarzan Cooper, regarded as the outstanding ball handler in the game today, and "Wee Willie" Smith, a Cleveland boy, who was instrumental in the Rens' championship triumphs.

Other members of the club familiar to pro basketball followers are "Bruiser" Saitch, John Isaccs, "Pop" Gates, "Puggy" Bell and Zack Clayton.

One of the hardest clubs in the country to sign because of the demand for appearances, City league officials were able to obtain the Renaissance club for tonight's game as it is scheduled to perform in Cleveland over the weekend.

* * *

Hank Richards of the Westinghouse club, who has been delegated to coach the City league All-Stars, will have a strong quintet at his disposal tonight.

* * *

Virtually all of the players who were in the lineup against the Celtics will be in uniform again tonight. The All-Stars' personnel includes Freddy Lewis, Noel Morgan, Howard Baker, George Nana, Tom Ferrell, Kenny Lockhart, Al Stickler, Howard Poole and George Hummel.

Builds Winner At Middletown

Coach Greene's Quint Hangs Up Eight Wins In Row; Bellville Among Undefeated.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—It appears that Coach Royner C. Greene, in his 11th year at Middletown high school, has built himself quite a basketball team.

The Middies have rolled up eight victories this season without a setback, which happens to be the best record among the Class A quintets. Only one team, Springfield's Wildcats, have come within 10 points of the Middies.

The Springfield game was won last week by Middletown, 34 to 33, when Leroy Hardeman, sophomore guard, flipped a free throw in the closing seconds. The Middies are not only a state title threat this year, but loom as a 1941 powerhouse, too.

A sophomore, three juniors and a lone senior make up the first team, and those five have scored 251 of the 253 points amassed by the Middies. The new "race-horse" game isn't for the Greenemen, for they have averaged only 31.6 points per game. Their tight defense, however, has held eight foes to an average of exactly 19.

* * *

Close on the heels of Middletown in the unbeaten Class A section are Marietta and Mt. Vernon with seven; Cincinnati Woodward, Canton McKinley, New Philadelphia, Cleveland Collinwood and Greenfield McClain with six; Fremont Ross with five, and Grandview and Akron Kenmore with four.

* * *

In Class B the leading unbeaten squads are: Spring Valley (Greene county) 11; Hoytville (Wood), and Wharton (Wyandot) 10; Celina Immaculate Conception, 9; Clarksburg (Ross), Columbiana), North Canton (Stark, Class B state champion), Beach City (Stark), Parkman (Geauga), West Carrollton (Montgomery) 8; Bellville (Richland) and Amanada (Fairfield) 7; Lockland (Hamilton), Forest (Hardin), Fairfield township (Fairfield), Coventry (Stark) and Ohio School for the Deaf (Columbus), 6; Malta-McConnellsville (Morgan), Canton St. Johns, Osborn (Green), Streetsboro (Portage), Irondale (Jefferson) and Smithfield (Jefferson) 5.

Rex Billiards Dropped Out of Tie for Friendly House Lead

Daley Cafe	0	5	.000

THE domination held by the Rex Billiards in the Friendly House Senior Class A basketball league the past two seasons seems to have been broken.

* * *

Entering this year's championship race as defending titlists, the Cuemen dusted off their first three rivals with ease and then dropped a decision to the Augustine Canfield club. And last night, in the weekly hostilities at the settlement, they suffered further embarrassment by dropping a 26 to 22 verdict to the Raemelton Farm quintet.

* * *

Raemelton's victory dropped the Billiards into third place, and left the winners sharing the top berth with the Canfield club.

While the Billiards were losing, the Canfield cagers edged the Moose Lodge, 25 to 22, and the Isaly Dairy five trounced the Daley Cafe team, 45 to 25.

The Billiards threatened to overtake the Farm team in the final period, but two quick baskets by Al Falter with the score at 22-all proved too much for the losers. Matt Hagar led the Raemelton club with seven points. Freddie Brubach and Mike Wentz set the individual pace with eight tallies apiece.

Augustine's representatives gained an 8 to 5 advantage in the opening quarter and never trailed. The winners led, 13 to 10, at halftime. Schaffer, Augustine forward, was high-point man with 12 markers.

* * *

The Dairys had little trouble in handing the Cafe outfit its fifth straight defeat. The winners were ahead, 7-3, in the first chapter, 20 to 10, at the half and 32 to 20 at the end of the third period.

Roberts collected 19 points for the Isaly team to cop high scoring honors for the evening.

HIT DISCORDANT VIEWS OF NEW YORK NBA GROUPS

NEW YORK — (AP) — Vowing common motives, the boxing solons still are as far apart as ever on governing the fight game. A dinner last night of the New York Boxing Writers for the presentation of the Edward J. Neil memorial trophy to light heavyweight Champion Billy Conn gave the issue some ventilation.

Abe Greene, chairman of the New Jersey athletic commission, declared: "For too long there have been discordant opinions between the national boxing association and the New York commission. The NBA speaks for the Hinterlands and New York is the hub for the bigger boxing attractions. They need to get together. It doesn't have to be contractual, but there can be a meeting of minds and hearts.

'Shag' Named Coach

Clark Shaughnessy Accepts Post at Stanford University, Succeeds Thornhill.

PALO ALTO, Cal.—(AP)—Alumni had both praise and criticism today for the selection of Clark D. Shaughnessy, University of Chicago's teamless football coach, to succeed Claude E. "Tiny" Thornhill at Stanford university.

Thornhill was dismissed recently after the poorest Stanford season in years.

Shaughnessy's appointment under a five-year contract was announced yesterday. No salary figure was disclosed. Shaughnessy received about $7,500 annually at Chicago, which abolished football last month after a disastrous season.

Shaughnessy coached at Tulane and Loyola of New Orleans before succeeding Amos Alonzo Stagg in 1933 at the Big Ten university.

Approval of Shaughnessy's selection came from such alumni as Leland Cutler, prominent San Franciscan and president of the university trustees, and Harlow Rothert, president of the block "S" society, an organization of Stanford men who have won athletic letters.

* * *

On the other side, Eugene J. Kern, president of the San Francisco board of trade, said he was disappointed because Dud De Groot, San Jose State coach and former Stanfordite, was not selected.

FOLLOW GREELEY'S ADVICE

CHICAGO — (AP) — Every head football coach at the University of Chicago now has followed Horace Greeley's advice of "Go west young man."

Amos Alonzo Stagg was 70 when he departed seven years ago for the College of the Pacific, and Clark Shaughnessy, who now is following him, can count 47 birthdays. The latter accepted a five-year contract at Stanford university. Shaughnessy's appointment was welcomed by Chicago alumni here.

Dizzy Loses Molar!

DALLAS, Tex. — (U.P.) — Dr. John R. Swanson, the dentist who extracted Dizzy Dean's impacted wisdom tooth, doubted today that the extraction would restore Dizzy's pitching arm.

"The nerve had been so badly damaged that the extraction may result in no benefit at all," he said. "That is a matter for time to reveal." Forced to remove the adjoining molar to get to the impacted tooth, Dr. Swanson said the operation was carried off "without incident, and Mr. Dean is a very good patient."

The extraction only required 10 minutes, but the dentist said Dizzy might have to wait months before he would know whether it would help his ailing pitching arm.

Separate Sets Of Rules Seen For Cage Game

Veteran Syracuse Coach Says It's Too Fast for High School Athletes.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Lew Andreas, who has kicked around this basketball game nearly two decades, figures the time is coming when separate sets of rules will be drawn for colleges and high schools to get away from some effects of the modern "horse-race" court sport.

"This modern game, with the center jump eliminated," the veteran coach of Syracuse basketball said today, "is like watching a table tennis match. The ball is always going back and forth with no stop. It's great to watch, but it puts a severe strain on the youngsters. Physicians have told us that."

* * *

The result, he added, may be that the rules will be changed for younger players, the high schoolers. He pointed out that at a recent meeting of educators an up-state physician reported tests showed the high-pressure action in present basketball causes increased blood pressure and strain on the performers.

* * *

"So it's altogether likely," Andreas went on, "that the center jump will be legislated back into high school ball to slow up the game somewhat and relieve this pressure on the youngsters. It isn't so bad for college players, largely because they're more fully developed."

'Muddy' Ruel Sees End of N. Y. Reign

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. —(AP)—Harold "Muddy" Ruel, veteran of 26 years in the majors, predicted today that the Chicago White Sox would be "right up there" next season. They just missed finishing third last season.

As for the Yankees, Ruel opined father time and other factors—possibly the White Sox—would stop them. "Maybe they'll grow lackadaisical with their greatness, and some time when they call on that power for the stretch drive it won't be there," said Ruel.

REFORMATORY CLUB ROLLS OVER CRESTLINE EAGLES

The Ohio State Reformatory quintet smothered the Crestline Eagles, 45 to 31, in a contest at the Reformatory last night.

Led by Clay and Price, who scored 15 and 12 points, respectively, the inmates went ahead 8 to 3 in the first period and led all the way. At halftime the winners were leading, 22 to 8.

THEATERS

IF THERE is any doubt that Bette Davis is regarded as the No. 1 actress of the screen, it should be dispelled by the Film Daily poll for the "ten best" pictures of the year. It is the first time in 18 years of polling that one actress had three of her starring vehicles on the list of ten. And the three roles were widely different in characterizations. She played the mad Empress Carlotta in "Juarez;" a lovely, impulsive girl who grows into the tense, cold "old maid" as she watches her own daughter grow to young womanhood; and then her most dramatic role in "Dark Victory," in which she gave a poignant and compelling picture of a society play girl and who grew into tremendous spiritual stature when she learned that blindness and death were her destiny. Miss Davis won the Academy award earlier this year for the best performance of any actress in 1938. No other player in pictures has accumulated so many honors.

Adds Baby to Plot.

"Brother Rat," the stage play, was so popular as a screen play that a sequel involving the same characters, has been made, "Brother Rat and a Baby," with Priscilla Lane, Jane Wyman, Ronald Regan, Jane Bryan, Eddie Albert and Eddie Morris, all of the "Brother Rat" picture, opens at the Ohio tomorrow. A baby is introduced- it was mentioned, you remember, in the first picture—and it starts things off right by swallowing the diamond ring of a fellow passenger on a train. The baby and its mother, Jane Bryan, have to be left in "hock" as security for the ring while Brother Rat Albert goes on to New York to look for a job. The complications continue right up to the end.

In the Days of Richard.

The chivalry, courage, intrigue and treachery of the English court in the time of Richard III, is brought to the screen in "The Tower of London," which will be shown at the Madison for four days, starting tomorrow. Basil Rathbone and Vincent Price, who was Helen Hayes' leading man for two years in "Victoria Regina" and recently played in the screen version of "Elizabeth and Essex," are seen as two fighting brothers. Boris Karloff is seen in the fearsome role of the executioner of the Tower. Rose Hobart, Barbara O'Neil and others are featured.

In Dual Role.

Tim McCoy plays a dual role in "Texas Wildcats," which the Majestic is showing today and tomorrow. He is seen as Lightning Bill Carson and as The Phantom, a mysterious outlaw who is being sought by the richest man in the cattle country. The connection between the two clears up an old murder mystery. "The Gracie Allen Murder Case" starts with a clear cut mystery which gets more complicated as Gracie tries to solve it.

Western at Ritz.

The Ritz's usual week-end Western film is "Sun Down On The Prairie" with Tex Ritter, and will be shown there today and Saturday. The top feature on the bill is Franchot Tone and Franciska Gaal in "The Girl Down Stairs," which combines romance and comedy between the son of the house and a maid below stairs. Walter Connolly plays the father and Rita Johnson the fiancee of the son.

Royal Romance.

Roy Rogers, young Western star who is coming right along in his film career since he made a personal appearance in Mansfield last spring, is the hero of the Western feature, "In Old Caliente," which is being shown at the Park. A royal love affair is depicted in "The Prisoner of Zenda," in which a gentleman adventurer is mistaken for a king. Ronald Colman, Madeleine Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks in the cast.

Senate Candidate

JOSEPH JAMESON.

Joseph Jameson, Lorain, to Seek G. O. P. Nomination in 27-29th District.

Joseph Jameson, former postmaster of Lorain, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state senator from the 27-29th district.

Jameson is the first to announce for the senate post which is held at present by E. H. Rogers, a Republican, of Grafton, Lorain county.

A former Republican councilman-at-large at Lorain and later president of council, Jameson held the postmastership from 1922 to 1935.

He is a native of Bryan, O., a graduate of Ohio Northern university at Ada and has been a registered pharmacist since 1909. He has lived in Lorain for 35 years and during part of that period was engaged in the retail drug business there.

Jameson is married and has two children.

The 27-29th district includes Richland, Ashland, Medina and Lorain counties.

Man Constructs Totem Poles as Relaxing Hobby

MONTICELLO, Ind. — (INS) — Ernest Schlegelmilch well known fisherman in this resort community, has another hobby—making totem poles.

Schlegelmilch uses a broadax and a chisel in carving out his totem poles. He became interested in his unique hobby this spring and since then has completed three poles.

The structures are hewn out of large tree logs with the figures gaily painted in bright colors.

First of the totem poles to be made by Schlegelmilch now stands on the lawn of a lake side cottage and is 12 feet high. Another, made of lombardy poplar, towers 16 feet. The last one made is of white poplar and stands 20 feet 6 inches high.

Schlegelmilch said it takes him about six weeks to complete one of the totem poles and he thinks up his own weird designs and grotesque figures.

WAITS JOB, DIES

JAMESTOWN, R. I. — (INS) — With brand new citizenship papers, Manuel Piva, 56, applied for reinstatement on the WPA but death intervened before his name was called. Piva, discharged when Congress banned aliens from WPA rolls, completed his naturalization and went back to headquarters for his job. He arrived early and sat down to wait. When the official in charge called his name, Piva did not answer. He was slumped in his chair, dead from a heart attack.

DEATHS REDUCED

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Reduction in airplane passenger fatalities from twenty-three to five per 10,000,000 miles since 1929 was reported here by Dr. Theodore P. Wright, vice president of the Curtiss Wright Corporation. Dr. Wright revealed that over the 10-year period the average cruising speed of an airplane has increased from 100 to 200 miles per hour and that passenger fares dropped from 12 to 5.7 cents per mile.

DUSK'S SIGNAL FOR WHISPERS IN AMSTERDAM

Eavesdropping in Cafes Grows to Be Favorite 'Sport' Among International Crowd.

(By United Press)

AMSTERDAM—This normally stolid city of Amsterdam has become Europe's whispering gallery, with a varied, international crowd of men and women doing the whispering and listening.

There are about a thousand foreigners in Amsterdam, of whom hundreds are "living out of suitcases" and are here for reasons of their own. Not all the listeners are glamorous personalities. One, for example, is a hall porter who meticulously examines wastepaper baskets "looking for foreign stamps."

But when the workaday citizens of Amsterdam have all cycled to their snug homes and substantial Dutch dinners, lights burn brightly in hundreds of cafes where the tunes of all European nations are played by polyglot orchestras and sung in every European language.

The varied assortment of clients pretend to listen, but actually they are all eavesdropping on each other. When a new group enters silence falls momentarily, and it seems that ears are growing longer all around.

There are bevies of female entertainers who are definitely in the "ham" class as singers and dancers, but who are extraordinarily interested in international politics.

They are remarkably capable of discussing such subjects and their technique is to take definite sides in the hope of making you talk. They are most curious as to who you are, where you come from and what you are doing.

One typical cafe has one Hungarian and one Belgian singer a German tap dancer and a French dancer, all working on two weeks contract. They all arrived in the country in the past fortnight and all of them intend to leave just as quickly.

Their favorite remark for customers who buy them a drink is "I'll bet you're a spy," accompanied by a brittle laugh.

All of them insist in the first instance that they can speak no language but their own, but if you listen long enough you will hear each of them speaking several tongues. Their favorite topic of conversation among themselves is the difficulty of obtaining Belgian, Scandinavian and other neutral visas.

The groups of customers at the tables, sipping the famous Dutch gin, are equally bizarre. If you listen you can sort out snatches of German, French and Scandinavian and other languages.

One soon learns to make a habit of treading as warily in conversation as when finding one's way home in the pouring rain amid the maze of Amsterdam's canals. And your last act before going to bed is to make sure that you still have that valuable treasure, your passport.

SLAVE OUTLIVES DAUGHTER.

FORT WORTH, Tex. —(U.P.)— Lucy Crayton, an 105-year-old ex-slave, today had outlived one of her two children. Lucy, who collapsed recently when told of the death of her daughter, Clara Raleigh, 78, lives with her other daughter, Ann Rolla, 74, also an ex-slave.

FIREMEN IN TUXEDOS.

NEWTON, Mass. —(U.P.)— Firemen dressed in tuxedos and stiff shirts, battled a $50,000 blaze when a general alarm called them from the annual police ball.

RUNNING LIGHTS OFF COLOR.

REDDING, Cal.—(U.P.)—A loyal navy wife thought it would be fine to have red and green running lights on her automobile so had one headlight red and the other green. A highway patrolman warned her such lights might be fine on the high seas but distinctly taboo on California highways.

DISLOCATED JAW.

BERKELEY, Cal. —(U.P.)— Wilford Walsh, 22, bellhop, didn't know that when lying in bed reading a detective thriller, the nervous and muscular systems are tense, so he yawned. His mother called the police, but before they arrived his dislocated jaw went back into place.

STEELS SPARK RALLY AFTER DULL OPENING

Buying Attributed to Theory Yesterday's Selling Burst Overdone.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Steels led a selective rallying attempt in today's stock market after the list had slipped fractionally in early dealings.

The comeback was slow, however, and minor declines were plentiful.

Inclined to point higher were U S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Glenn Martin, Union Carbide, Cerro de Pasco, International Nickel, Great Northern, Pennsylvania and Loft.

Thoughts of possible new taxes, brokers said, remained as a speculative handicap, but some buying was attributed to the theory Thursday's selling burst may have been overdone. With Wall Street still talking of a business recession during the next several months, the suggestion was heard that stocks might have already discounted the expected contraction.

Bonds and commodities were irregularly lower. European securities markets were mixed

On the losing side at an active opening were Montgomery Ward, N. Y. Central, Curtiss Wright, Standard Oil of N. J., Anaconda and DuPont. Unchanged were U S. Steel, Bethlehem and Chrysler

Dun & Bradstreet estimated the week's average gain in retail volume over the same period last year ranged from 7 to 13 per cent.

PUT ON COUNCIL

Three New Members Elected by Lutheran Church.

Three new members were elected to the church council and an auditing committee was chosen at the annual congregational meeting of the First Lutheran church last night.

New members elected to the council for terms of three years, are Charles Koogle, Tulley Grubaugh and Glenn Davidson. They will be installed at the morning service Sunday.

Elected to the auditing committee were Howard Miller and Clayson D. Bell. The congregation also voted to continue to support Rev. Karl Wulf, pastor of a Home Mission church at Alberta, Canada. Reports were also heard from the various church organizations.

John K. Linsenmayer presided during the meeting. First meeting of the new council was announced for 7:30 p. m. Monday at the church.

MADE HIS MARK

Window Cleaner Falls 5 Stories, Dents Auto But Escapes Hurt.

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Henry Grabowski made quite a dent when he fell 60 feet from a fifth story window and landed on the metal top of an automobile but that's about the extent of the damage.

X-ray pictures failed to disclose a single broken bone in the 20-year-old window cleaner. Grabowski said a window sash gave away.

"I twisted and looked down for a second then I hit something and the next thing I remember they were picking me up."

BRICKER RULES FOR 'VALJEAN'

Refuses Oklahoma's Demands to Return Fugitive Who 'Made Good' in Ohio.

would do more to improve the spirit and morale of the inmates of our penal institutions than any adherence to legalistic technicalities. In this equation, his wife and step-child, who are wholly dependent on him for support, must likewise be considered."

The letter was addressed to Gov. Leon Phillips of Oklahoma, who reinstituted extradition proceedings after refusing a pardon plea for Chilton. Governor Bricker's clemency secretary, Harry Miller, heard Oklahoma's arguments for custody of Chilton at a hearing yesterday.

Chilton's return to Oklahoma was refused in 1936 by former Gov. Martin L. Davey, who gave Chilton a job in the state highway department.

Owen J. Watts, assistant Oklahoma attorney general, contending at the extradition hearing that "the fundamental institutions of this government are on trial," said later the state would keep trying to "get its man."

"If we fail to extradite Mr. Chilton on this hearing, we shall renew our application at the next available opportunity," declared Watts. "Carlton Chilton owes a debt to the state of Oklahoma. We want it paid."

"This man has been punished enough," replied Municipal Judge Perry A. Frey of Cleveland, counsel for Chilton. "He has reformed and paid his debt to society."

Former Gov. Martin L. Davey refused to extradite Chilton following a similar hearing in 1936. Instead, Davey gave Chilton a job in the state highway department which he now holds.

The Oklahoma 'Jean Valjean' is married and is the step-father of a 19-year-old boy.

He walked away from the Granite, Okla., reformatory in 1913 after serving 10 months of a two-year sentence for a $2,200 bank robbery. He returned all but $30 of his share of the loot.

Warden Fred Hunt of the reformatory promised that Chilton "won't be punished" and that he would be "a happy boy" if he returned "so we can keep the records straight."

A half-dozen prominent Cleveland citizens pleaded for Chilton.

Jap Cabinet Crisis to End With Premier Leaving.

TOKYO—(U.P.)—A long brewing cabinet crisis is to reach its climax Sunday in the resignation of Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, the premier, and his cabinet aides, it was understood today.

There were strong indications that the next cabinet might be largely a civilian one, including representatives of the chief political groups, except as regards the defense ministers, which are traditionally headed by a general, for the army, and an admiral, for the navy.

Premier Abe called a cabinet meeting for 9 a. m. Sunday (7 p. m. Saturday EST) and arranged to report to the emperor immediately afterward. It was expected that he would present to the emperor the collective resignation of his ministry.

20,000 SOVIET TROOPS FALL IN FINNISH TRAP

Helsinki Says Division Cut Off by Finn Columns; Claims 2 Other Traps Set.

Suomussalmi front were many nurses and women interpreters, who have been put to work caring for the Russian wounded in Finnish hospitals.

Temperatures which dropped to 40 degrees below zero aided in hampering Russian activities on the eastern front.

Big guns, however, again pounded the Mannerheim line of fortifications on the Carelian isthmus.

Finnish officers estimated the Russian forces there at 400,000, and the number of Soviet army artillery guns at 2,000.

Report Reds Drop Troops In Parachutes.

COPENHAGEN — (U.P.) — The newspaper Berlingske Tidende reported today that Russian troops were being dropped in parachutes behind Finnish lines on the Karelian isthmus.

The newspaper said the Russians were trying new thrusts in the Salla sector of central Finland and near Petsamo, Finland's Arctic port. Long range guns were reported to have resumed shelling Viipuri (Viborg), Finland's second city, and it was reported that about 20 Russian divisions, each of 20,000 men and 2,000 guns, had been concentrated against the Mannerheim defense line.

(In Stockholm the newspaper Tidingen reported from Helsinki that 50 Russians had been dropped in parachutes behind the Finnish lines and that all had been killed by Finnish sharpshooters while their parachutes were descending.)

Russian airplanes were dropping provisions for their troops on the Salla Arctic circle front in Finland, press dispatches reported, suggesting that the Finns had disrupted Russian communications as they had done on the Suomussalmi front before their recent big victory.

Contradictory to this dispatch was one to the National Tidende here from Helsinki, reporting Russian attacks on the Salla and the far northern Petsamo front.

A Social Demokraten dispatch reported that the Russians now had at least 350,000 men and 2,000 cannon massed in the Karelian peninsula facing the Mannerheim line.

Berlingske Tidende, in a dispatch from the Finnish northeastern front, quoted a Finnish colonel as saying that when the Russians appealed to their headquarters by short wave radio for reinforcements during the recent battle of Suomussalmi, headquarters radioed back: "We demand that you advance and gain the victory." Finally, however, the Finnish officer said, "a few companies" of reinforcements were dispatched.

In his plea to the jury Assistant Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz asked for the conviction of Call as "a safeguard to womanhood and a guarantee that other unsuspect g school girls will not be violated by him."

Call, who had no witnesses in his behalf, denied every accusation on the witness stand except that he had gone to the Butler school in December in attempt to get a 14-year-old girl to go with him. The girl and two teachers testified that he had said her mother had been injured in a fall and that he would take the girl home.

Twelve witnesses, including the three school girls and their parents, testified against Call who is the father of three small children His wife is an expectant mother, authorities said.

Call was submitted to a sanity test by three Mansfield physicians early this week. Two of the three declared him sane.

Investigator Says Blast That Killed 3 Was Due to Carelessness.

BINGHAM, Utah —(AP)— Three men died in a dynamite explosion at the Utah Copper company's open-cut mine here because of their own "careless work," Utah Mine Inspector E. A. Hodges said today.

Hodges, completing an investigation of the blast which buried the men beneath tons of debris late Wednesday, said the huge charge of dynamite was set off by a mishandled primer fuse.

preparation for intensive raids on British docks and shipyards.

To strengthen coast defenses, British authorities considered sending aloft more balloon barrages from barges near the shore.

The British air ministry meanwhile disclosed it had in production a new long-range superfighter "of very high speed." It said the time had not yet come to use them but "when it does,' there may be some surprises—especially in the numbers which are likely to be used."

The supermarine Spitfire, capable of almost 400 miles an hour, is Britain's fastest plane now and some British authorities have called it the world's fastest.

An air raid warning was sounded in only one area during the German flights yesterday.

Thousands of persons watched the white puffs of anti-aircraft shells bursting around the German planes. At one east coast resort crowds lined the cliffs to watch an invading bomber attack a small steamer several miles from shore.

British fliers rose to meet the German planes and in one instance, a formation of three R. A. F. craft was said to have damaged and chased a Heinkel bomber as it circled over three cargo vessels.

LOCKE HANDED FIRST REBUFF IN POLICE REQUEST

Mayor Turned Down by Council Group; Appropriations for 1940 Increased.

The committee set up $59,920 for the operation of the police department. This is $800 under the 1939 appropriation but provides for the purchase of one new cruiser to replace a three-year-old car now in service.

The major increase in the general fund was for relief—an item for which the committee allocated $30,000. The city's share of relief costs was estimated at $85,000 this year. In 1939 no appropriation was set up for relief and as a result the city struggled through the year tapping various funds for relief money.

After setting up $2,700 under the relief fund for services of a city doctor, they transferred the amount to the health department and then raised the figure $200 to cover automobile expense.

Chops Off Payment to Staff.

Another item "chopped" from the relief fund was $5,000 tentatively earmarked for payment to General hospital staff physicians for medical and surgical care of indigent patients. No provision was made to meet this item.

With the transfer of funds to the health department — sliced from the budget last summer when council agreed to hire a city physician and abolish the position of assistant city-county health commissioner—the allocation for that department remained about the same, or approximately $20,000.

Earmarking funds for the purchase of a new truck and additions at both North lake and Liberty park pavilions, the committee boosted the allocation for the park to $16,100. This amount is a $3,900 increase over the 1939 appropriation.

Set aside for the new truck was $800 while $1,400 was allowed for an addition to the North lake park pavilion and $1,000 for an addition to the shelter house at Liberty park.

Ignores State Law.

Ignoring a new state law which reduces firemen's maximum work week from 84 to 72 hour and which would require the services of four additional men in the fire department, the committee cut the appropriation to $65,355, or $100 less than was allotted last year.

The committee also appropriated $827 for recreation supervision setting up the balance available from a bond issue voted a number of years ago.

Where Kelley estimated $189,423 available for waterworks operation from department revenue, the committee sliced the allocation to $133,912. This is nearly $4,000 under what was actually spent in 1939.

The committee included in the 1940 expenditures an $11,000 item, earmarking it for the construction of a new water main to be laid on West Fourth street if the street is resurfaced this summer.

Although Kelley had estimated that $106,862 would be the greatest amount available for street cleaning and traffic lights and street maintenance, the committee made drastic reductions from these figures when it set up appropriations from those funds.

Contemplating the expenditure of $25,000 as its share of the anticipated West Fourth street resurfacing project, the committee allocated $77,450. A total of $79,240 was spent for that work last year.

The budget for the sanitary sewer department was set at $43,215, approximately $1,200 more than was spent in 1939. The garbage department was allotted $35,685, about $2,000 less than last year.

A total of $10,065 was allocated for firemen's pensions and $11,755 for police pensions. Last year firemen's pensions totaled $8,885 and the police pension $8,705 for both are derived from a levy.

HOPES DWINDLE FOR 91 IN MINE

Rescuers Find 17 Bodies as Fears Increase That Blast, Gas Killed All Victims.

Four bodies were recovered before rescuers reached the explosion scene. The explosion occurred less than an hour before the day shift was scheduled to go off duty.

Company officials estimated it would be early afternoon before other trapped men could be reached. Crews had to build barriers to allow laborers to work without oxygen helmets. In some places there was hardly enough room for one man to crawl between the roof and piled debris.

Families Wait In Cold.

Above ground scores of miners and relatives of entombed men huddled together in a cold drizzle, watching gloomily. Many had clung to hope as the hours passed, while veterans miners who have witnessed such disasters feared the worst.

Lights burned throughout the night in homes of this isolated community of 2,500 in the heart of the rich southern West Virginia coal fields. In those homes were 154 children of the trapped men, many of them still wondering why "Daddy" hadn't come home from work.

State Mine Inspector E. L. Chatfield, after talking with the rescue crews, said, "the evidence of the violence indicates that every man in the mine is domed."

He reported one of the crews found a two-ton loading machine blown 60 feet from the face of the coal. The track on which it ran was twisted and warped.

"The men apparently had no chance to get away," he added, dashing further the hopes that some of the group might have been able to barricade themselves in an isolated section.

"After damp," the mixture of gasses which is left after all oxygen is burned out in an explosion, would have killed many of the men instantly, Chatfield declared, if they were unable to shut themselves off.

However, previous Scandinavian reports had said that Russia was so anxious about the ice situation in the Gulf of Finland that she had removed most of her ships from Kronstadt naval base, in the Leningrad area, and sent them around the corner of the Baltic to Estonia.

Copenhagen reported that numerous Danish waterways leading to the great belt were frozen over, that the fishing port of Faaborg was icebound and that all Danish icebreakers had been put in readiness for immediate service. The great belt channel lies between the Danish mainland and the island group, including the capital, between the mainland and Sweden.

GERMANS SHIVER

BERLIN — (U.P.) — Severe cold caused increased suffering in Germany today because of the strict rationing of coal.

Supplies of coal were dwindling, because canal boats were icebound.

At first only poorer people suffered, but today big apartment houses in the prosperous west end of Berlin were feeling the cold. Landlords had to close down furnaces, and such families as could installed electric heaters or tried to build small emergency fireplaces in their apartments.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1940.

If all the money in circulation were equally divided each man, woman and child would have $57.71—for a few minutes.

Now that the Christmas cards have served their purpose—don't forget that Friendly House can use the pictures to very good advantage.

German universities, lately closed altogether, have started opening again. Can it be that the Nazi government is getting interested in education?

Those Annual Recommendations

THERE is a strangely familiar sound to some of the recommendations made by City Engineer W. C. Statler in his annual report, submitted yesterday.

That matter of correcting Mansfield's haphazard house-numbering system, for instance, has been talked about for years—but nothing done. Not a big job—but one that would have to be started and carried through. Likely as not it will go on just as it is now, unless council and the present city administration decide to do something about it.

Then there's the annually repeated recommendation for a north-south highway in the west part of the city, with an overhead crossing of railroads. Need for such a highway has been recognized—and talked about for a quarter of a century, and this has become more urgent since the Senior high school was put in use about twelve years ago.

But city administrations have changed every two or four years and nothing has been done about it.

The city engineer has continued in office for a considerable number of years, under civil service, and is in position to keep quite close tab on needs that have existed for a long time, as well as on improvements that have been carried through during this period.

Experience has been that, in advance of each forward step, it has been necessary to decide upon some one particular thing that seemed most urgent, and to proceed with this, rather than to attempt too many things at a time.

Further study of Mansfield's present needs may disclose the one or two on which attention should be concentrated this year, with a view to actual accomplishment rather than continuance of fruitless talk.

Big Day In Loudonville

SOMETIME, when a feature writer is looking around for a model small Ohio community on which to base an article intended to provide inspiration for other large towns and small cities, he will find Loudonville, down in southern Ashland county, and will be in the midst of material that can be developed to the extent of his abilities.

Today's dedication of a $125,000 addition to the Flxible plant and a $170,000 addition to the high school makes this a big occasion in Loudonville but one that is merely incidental to the general record of the village through many years, and the fine spirit evidenced by its residents.

The return of Charles F. Kettering to his home town for a couple of talks during the progress of today's ceremonies, makes the event even more noteworthy, as Mr. Kettering's rise to an exceptionally high place in the fields of engineering and industry provides inspiration for every ambitious youth who becomes acquainted with the farm and village background of this real-life success story.

It has not been Loudonville's ambition to grow rapidly—it has preferred to grow well—and, maybe, when human judgment becomes more mature, it will be communities around Loudonville's size that can provide solution for some of America's most vexatious problems.

Burdens of Middle Age

DR. RAYMOND PEARL, addressing the American Statistical association, suggests that the people who "do the work and pay the bills and taxes" may have to "gang up" on the old and the young. The latter groups, he says, are getting more than their share, and the old people particularly are conspiring to benefit themselves unduly at the expense of the middle-aged workers and earners.

"No social trend could be more obvious," he remarks, "than the increasing demands of the old folks that they be adequately taken care of when they are in that terminal phase of their earthly career." The founding fathers, he says, were wise enough to know that boys and girls under 21 were too young to vote, but they failed to realize that old people might be too foolish to vote. He regards the growing demand for large old-age pensions as evidence of such foolishness.

This is becoming recognized as a serious problem—not the right of old people to vote, which is not questioned—but the power over the public purse that might be wielded by large groups of elderly people.

It is often overlooked that large pensions for the old, who are a rapidly increasing part of the population, have to be paid by the workers and earners, and therefore may put a very heavy burden on the young and middle-aged. They also tend to discourage thrifty provision for old age, long regarded as an individual and family responsibility.

TVA States Miss Utility Taxes

DOWN in the TVA area they are finding out that the socialists' gayly painted word pictures of what happens when government goes into business don't jibe with the facts produced by experience.

Every time TVA, a government business venture, takes over private property, that property is removed from the tax rolls. And the TVA pays next to nothing in taxes itself, by comparison with what was paid by the private power companies it has absorbed. The result is that state and local units of government have been trying, unsuccessfully, to make both ends meet without soaking the remaining taxpayers.

A considerable number of public officials in Tennessee are now demanding that congress pass a law removing TVA's tax immunity. And the Georgia legislature has passed two bills attempting to give taxing bodies the right to tax federal property engaged in "proprietary" business in competition with private enterprise.

There is no precedent whereby congress could give states the right to tax federal property—and even if congress did pass such a law there are grave doubts as to its constitutionality.

So the southeast is learning that it can't have its cake and eat it too. This same problem is faced by every section where tax-exempt government projects compete with heavily-taxed private enterprise.

Hitler's admission that he is a self-made man serves at least to remove the stigma from his progenitors.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—New York has a way of honoring the nation's heroes by naming buildings and bridges after them. This is a gracious and a laudatory thing, and yet I wonder if the city doesn't err in naming its edifices after men when an examination of the surrounding terrain would suggest more appropriate names.

I have in mind particularly the George Washington bridge and the Lincoln tunnel. The George Washington bridge is a magnificent expanse of concrete and steel and it spans the Hudson in a great hanging highway that may be seen for many miles.

* * *

BUT much as we love George Washington, the Palisades bridge would be a better name. The Palisades are among the nation's most beautiful landmarks. They rise in sheer rocky eminence for miles along the Hudson. They are the scenes of many incidents of historic importance. On them Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr had their senseless, tragic duel. Washington's spies used to lie on them and study the activities of the British, who then held Manhattan. Once the Indians built their campfires on the spot where the Weehawken ferry has its slips.

The Lincoln tunnel crosses the river from about 38th street on the Manhattan side and burrows to New Jersey some distance on the "under side" of the ferries.

We all honor and respect the memory of Lincoln, but there is no earthly reason why this tunnel should be named after him. He never lived here. He wasn't a New Yorker. He was as far from being an "easterner" as any man could be. A far better name would be the Manhattan tunnel or the Weehawken tunnel, or even simply the Hudson tunnel. These names mean something, locally, and have a local significance. Lincoln does not.

* * *

FIFTH avenue, where many of the most expensive shops are situated, isn't very subtle about its defenders—the detectives who roam its byways and keep an eye peeled for snatchers. Most of the dicks, looking like characters out of a grade-B melodrama, congregate between 52nd and 59th streets. All have gray hair, all wear turndown felt brims, and all are as transparent as if they wore placards on their backs.

The mistake these officers make is standing in one place every day and talking to the same people.

Most of these detectives are ex-cops who have been promoted. They are fond of talk with each other, too, and it is a fairly common occurence to find three or four of them passing small talk in a friendly manner on the street.

* * *

In all the long, brilliant, seven-year history of the Music Hall, the last day of 1939 was the biggest single day it has had. The attraction: "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." The previous record was held by the Astaire-Rogers combination in 1936) "Follow the Fleet." This was such a big occasion that I asked Mr. W. G. Van Schmus to release the exact figures to me, but he hesitated for a moment, and then shook his head. "I'm afraid," he said, "it would sound too much like boasting, and I wouldn't want to do that."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Jan. 12, 1920.

Horse attached to delivery bobsled ran away and "at last reports had not been caught."

THE GOOSE THAT LAYS THE GOLDEN EGGS

Russian Communism Is Different

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University.

RUSSIAN communism is radically different from communism as an economic system. A failure to see that there is hardly anything in common between the two systems has apparently led many uninformed people to sympathize with Russian communism under the impression that it represents the very old harmless system of communism that has been tried over and over again for 2,000 years.

Communism as an economic system simply means that those who voluntarily join the system and voluntarily remain in the system put all their property and all their earnings in a common fund, and draw upon it according to their needs. Force or compulsion of any sort is inconsistent with and antagonistic to this type of communism.

Communism as an economic system was tried by the disciples of Jesus and proved a miserable failure. A communistic system was set up by Robert Owen at New Harmony, Ind., in 1824. After two or three years it went to pieces.

In 1844 the Fourier system of communism evoked wide and intense enthusiasm in this country. Such men as Horace Greeley, Charles A. Dana, and Nathaniel Hawthorne were among the leaders in this communist movement. As a result, thirty communistic communities were organized in six different states. But after a short period all of these communities, organized on principles antagonistic to human nature, passed out. Other communistic communities came into existence and passed out later.

* * *

THERE is nothing in the Constitution to prohibit small or large groups of families from establishing and living under an economic system of common property, so long as compulsion is not used, and the constitutional rights of every member are protected.

Russian communism is radical, world-revolutionary, atheistic movement that is fundamentally different from historic communism. Russian communism was established by extreme violence. Brutal force is the outstanding factor in holding it together, according to the testimony of those who have been members of the movement.

The system is antagonistic to every sane conception of democracy, and is recognized as the most autocratic dictatorship in the world. In addition to this it is a world revolutionary movement. The undisputed objective of Russian communists is to destroy every other government in existence and bring the world under the red flag. The unmitigated presumption and brutal insolence of these atheist-communist leaders should be regarded as a gross insult to all who have stood for the Christian ideals of civilization.

* * *

RUSSIA has made herself the deadly enemy of all civilized governments. A government that makes bold to declare that there is no God, and dedicates itself to the pagan task of destroying all other governments in the world that are inconsistent with savage ideals, can lay no claim to being civilized.

How can a civilized government give any sort of recognition to a government that is openly seeking to destroy it? How can those who are bound under oath to protect, preserve and defend the Constitution give full recognition to and fellowship with Russian communists whose one great objective is to destroy the Constitution, take down the stars and stripes, and raise in its place the flag that has been made red by the blood of innocent people, put to death by the ruthless leaders of the red crusade?

It is grossly inconsistent for this government to permit any group or any individual to remain in this country that is connected directly or indirectly with Russian revolutionary communism.

But Russia has been given full recognition by the administration, and Stalin was congratulated by the president, on the anniversary of Russian red revolutionary atheist government. It is a gross perversion of the right of free speech to use it to destroy the freedom of speech.

Beware of a Comfortable Marriage.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

BEWARE of a marriage that will make things comfortable for you.

Beware of a mate whom you can patronize—who will let you "take things easy"—who will never criticize you or make you feel like thirty cents.

Nothing will make a bum of you quicker than such a marriage. Nothing will make a cad or a coward of you quicker than such a mate.

Love is divine—if it's the right kind of love. But it is utterly demoralizing if it's the wrong kind of love. And unfortunately most of us are ignorant about the "right" and "wrong" kinds of love. But there's a test—

Any love that makes you live more bravely, honestly and energetically is the right kind of love.

Any love that helps you to slide out from under life is the wrong kind of love.

For life is the important thing, not love. You need growth far more than you need romance. Love is only important as it ministers to life—as it makes a finer man or woman of you. If it doesn't do that, love's a failure, no matter how "happy" it makes you.

That is why many of the wisest men have condemned marriage. They felt that it complicated life too much—that it endangered growth. They saw clearly that marriage, which most of us regard so blithely, is really the gravest risk a character can take. For if you stay single the world will always take it out of you if you make a fool of yourself.

But if you're married you nearly always get petted up at home. Also it takes so little effort to be a success in marriage. Just flatter the old man or bring the old girl a bunch of flowers, and you're a prize winner as a Missis or a Mister. But it takes much, much more than that to qualify as a regular human.

Why have men and women turned against a "faithful, loving partner, who never did an unkind thing to them"? That's why. There is something deadly and damning about such a companionship. Something unnatural. No human being has a right to spend years with another human being and never do an unkind thing to him or her. No two human beings can be real partners and not stir each other up, not criticize and clash in the course of their mutual progress.

And something in us—something deep and unconscious, but intensely vital in us—revolts against such stagnation. Actually it is life within us revoking—life demanding stimulation.

Don't look for a happy marriage. It would probably be the worst thing that could happen to you. Look for an exciting marriage—a provoking marriage and a mate who will continually challenge you and put you on your mettle.

Timely Editorial

Easy Marks for Rackets.

On its face it seems incredible that business and professional people would entrust two or three hundred thousand dollars to a man who claimed to have a "streamlined press for the printing of policy tickets," which they had never seen. It would be incredible, if it were not happening all the time.

Reduced to cold print, the details of any confidence game would hardly delude a child. They depend for success on impondorables, on atmosphere and the appearance of things, on personalities that inspire trust, and the human weaknesses on which the operator plays especially greed. It is an axiom of the craft that the best racket is one just outside or on the fringe of the law. Not only does its shady nature help to explain the enormous profits promised, but it disarms the victim whose impulse is to run to the law. By itself, a printing machine is certainly not unlawful, but that touch of the racket in connecting it with policy tickets is the kind of bait that makes it irresistible to many suckers.

John O'Connor, in his authoritative handbook on the rackets remarks that "the fellow who nibbles at the hustler's bait has a streak of the sucker hidden somewhere in him.—Detroit News.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The lowdown on why President Roosevelt suddenly gave the cold shoulder to handsome Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt is very simple.

It hasn't made headlines yet, but the McNutt machine in Indiana has got itself snarled up in an income tax mess which is full of dynamite. In fact, it may be one of the major tax scandals of 1940.

McNutt personally is not involved. There is no taint upon his personal integrity. But apparently he failed to keep an eye on several big-shots around him. They are mired deeply. The repercussions are expected to be strong enough to blow McNutt's presidential ambitions out of the water.

The case revolves round the famous Indiana 2 per cent plan, whereby state employes donate 2 per cent of their salaries to the party. There was nothing illegal about this, but it now appears from the treasury department's secret investigations that two per cent—or more—was collected on a lot of things—road contracts, purchases of furniture, and various supplies.

J. Edgar Hoover has some vigorous ideas about the sale of paroles, especially the parole of the famous John Dillinger, who killed some 15 people after being paroled from an Indiana penitentiary.

The gentlemen now being investigated made the grave mistake of failing to report some of this revenue on their income tax returns.

* * *

How Case Started.

UNIQUE phase of the case is the manner in which it got started. The man who precipitated it was Pleas Greenlee, former secretary to McNutt. Greenlee had been a member of the Bituminous Coal Commission, but when it was put under the aegis of Harold Ickes, Greenlee's job automatically folded, and he was recommended as collector of internal revenue for Indiana.

But the treasury department was not anxious to appoint Greenlee. Morgenthau was quite satisfied with Will Smith, the incumbent. However, he had his treasury investigators go through a routine check-up of Greenlee, which disclosed that the proposed internal revenue collector had not always made out an income tax return.

Greenlee's omissions, however, were relatively minor compared with others in the McNutt camp, and his differences with the treasury have been adjusted. Also, according to internal revenue agents, he became helpful in leading them through the maze of Indiana politics and tax receipts.

The treasury expects to send the case to the justice department in two or three weeks and it should break wide open shortly thereafter.

Note—President Roosevelt's move to put Josephine Roche in charge of his health committee, thus superseding McNutt, came shortly after he got Morgenthau's report on the brewing scandals.

Sugar Lobby.

THE clan is gathering on Capitol Hill. Not until the end of this year does the Sugar Act expire, but the sugar lobbyists already have come to town, registered at the best hotels, and begun to roll up their expense accounts.

First contingent to arrive was from Louisiana. That's cane. Then came the beet boys from Colorado, then more cane boys from Florida.

The boys have been moving around, wishing a Happy New Year to all their friends—not including Cordell Hull, who hates the sugar lobby as much as he hates the Smoot-Hawley tariff.

They have put out no publicity, but the congressmen know that the sugar lobby is in town.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

THE income tax move which Attorney General Murphy is making against "Sweet William" Bioff, Hollywood labor leader, is based upon the allegation that Bioff did not chalk up on his income tax return a payment of $100,000 made to him by Joe Schenck of Twentieth Century-Fox in connection with calling off a movie strike. . . . Colonel Lindbergh got a lot of criticism when he reported, just before Munich, that the Russian air force was a weak reed to lean on. Now it looks as if he was right. . . . At the Jackson day dinner Mrs. Roosevelt never took her eyes off her husband's face while he talked. On her immediate right, Evie Walker Roberts, wife of the master of ceremonies, seldom took her eyes off Mrs. Roosevelt's face. . . . On Mrs. Roosevelt's left sat handsome Sumner Welles, who in knee breeches once was a page boy at her wedding. Now he is under secretary of state.

Florida Ship Canal.

NINE lives has the Florida ship canal. Twice killed in congress, with Senator Vandenberg wielding the club, the proposal to dig a ditch across Florida is showing signs of unabated vigor.

Before the month is out, proponents of the canal, led by dynamic Senator Pepper of Florida, once again will bring the matter before congress, asking for action at this session.

They have a new argument and a new money plan. They will stress the national defense value of the canal, pointing out that in case of war, the canal would save enough shipping to pay for itself many times over.

Their money plan has two alternatives. One would be for the federal government to underwrite bonds of the Florida ship canal authority. The other plan—which is preferred—would be for RFC to buy the bonds of the authority. This could be done under existing powers of the RFC.

Disclosed for the first time is the fact that last year, a syndicate of British banks, including the giant Midland bank, offered to buy bonds of the canal to the total sum of $190,000,000 sufficient to cover the entire cost of construction.

But when Floridians brought this plan to Roosevelt, he threw up his hands and said, "That's out!" Canal boosters will now use this point to support their argument of the canal's financial soundness.

Lenin's Headquarters.

GEORGE MARSHALL is known in the sport world as owner of the Redskins professional football team which missed last year's championship by a disputed field goal. But in Washington he was originally known for his Palace Laundries. They are ornate establishments decked out in purple tile and flaunting the slogan: "LONG LIVE LINEN."

Wise-cracked handsome Brazilian diplomat Hasslocher, as he drove past one of Marshall's Palace Laundries the other day: "I see the Russians have set up headquarters in Washington. Yes—in a palace with a sign which says 'Long Live Lenin'."

Winter Dandelion

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WALKED out along our little spring-fed creek. It was frozen near the banks and upon the pools, but where it ran more rapidly, the ice was gone and I saw the rippling waves and listened to their gurgling music. My errand was to find a secluded dandelion stalk which I had noticed several weeks ago. Beneath a green-covered bank this plant had found its home and when I saw it last had long tender leaves and a big bud setting on its crown.

Now that three days of near-zero weather had come to the valley, I was anxious to see how my little friend had fared. I followed along the hollow toward the spot where I saw it but found a disappointing ten-inch drift of snow along the bank. I stooped and scraped some of the snow away, but did not find the flower. Then I looked farther along the western bank and saw a small shelter nearly covered by a roof of crusted drift.

I looked beneath and saw some green sprawling leaves with long scared ends dusted lightly with sprays of snow. I traced them inward to the crown and touched the short-stemmed open bud. Powdery snow had partially filled its open cup. I blew upon it and the dry flakes disappeared. Some of the yellow hairs were brown at the very top. I passed my finger over the moist cool surface and found it was only slightly injured by the cold.

The stem was scantily clad for such rough weather with sparsely drooping hairs. The bold little flower looked upward through its yellow maze but saw no sun, for the gay white roof had almost sealed it over. No bee or painted butterfly will find its golden fringes; no south wind will blow to kiss this hardy bloom; no round gray head of fluff will float its winged seeds on the air; no finch will feast upon them.

No progeny will perpetuate this hardy plant. The winter wind and killing frost has borne away its friends, the insects. Yet I doubt not that for weeks to come this modest bold little dandelion will be blooming in spite of cold northern blasts. Deep in the warm moist earth the fleshy taproot has anchored well its base. So long as the root is there, life surges upward, feeding and warming the visible portions of the hardy flower.

FUGITIVES BACK

O. S. R. Inmates Who Escaped Face Auto Theft Charge.

Two Mansfield reformatory inmates who were captured in Dayton Monday night, less than 24 hours after they escaped from the reformatory, were held in the county jail today on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

The fugitives—Frank Grigsby, 22, and James Mayer, 24, both of Montgomery county—were returned to Mansfield by reformatory guards and the charge was filed against them in municipal court.

They fled to Dayton in a car stolen from the garage of Charles Zitzer, 321 Park avenue west, Sunday night, after escaping from the reformatory cell block through a small ventilator shaft.

TALKS TO WOMEN

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Mary Gerlaugh, extension specialist in family relationships and child development from Ohio State university, was the principal speaker when rural women of the county held a county wide meeting at Leesville school, Wednesday afternoon.

The speaker stressed the importance of encouraging children in development of their individual personalities. "Parents must relieve their tension rather than increase it when dealing with problems in their children," was a point brought out by Mrs. Gerlaugh.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

A number of children will be glad to see that another book by Laura Ingalls Wilder is ready for their enjoyment. Like the other books it is a pioneer story and this is the fourth one about her own life. Also in this week's display another pioneer story will be found that is of interest to younger readers.

BY THE SHORES OF SILVER LAKE, by Laura Ingalls Wilder—At the opening of this story Laura is just learning to see things for her younger sister who is blind after an attack of scarlet fever. The train ride from Plum Creek in Minnesota to the railroad camp in the Dakotas is a new experience for all. The most interesting part of the book describes homesteading on the Dakota prairie and the building of the first railroad in that section.

BY WAGON AND FLATBOAT, by Enid Meadowcroft—The Burd family lived near Philadelphia when George Washington became president but moved to Ohio immediately afterward. By wagon they travelled over the mountains to Pittsburgh and then by flatboat they came to Losantiville which is now Cincinnati. Marietta was a mere fortress along the river when they passed through it in 1789.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended the sentence and $90 of the fine on condition that Long, a railroad employe pay $8 a week until the estimated damage of $150 was paid to H. B. Fay, 156 West Temple court, driver of the other car involved in the collision.

Fay told the court that Long drove head-on into his machine on West Fourth street near Sherman place about 9:30 p. m. Wednesday.

NLRB Probers Dig Into Ohio Paper Factory Election

SEEK EVIDENCE IN CIO VICTORY BY ONE VOTE

Labor Board Attorney Recalled by Committee to Tell of Middletown Poll.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The special house committee investigating the National Labor Relations Board seeks additional evidence today on a disputed election which resulted in award to the United Papar Workers, (CIO), of exclusive bargaining rights for all employes of a company on the basis of a one-vote majority.

Committee Counsel Edmund F. Toland recalled Margaret McDuff Farmer, labor board review attorney, to obtain additional information about an NLRB election at the A. P. Sorg Paper company, Middletown, O.

Toland indicated that he did not believe the CIO majority would have stood up if the board had counted all of the 13 challenged ballots. He asked Miss Farmer whether she had written once that the union did not receive a majority. She said that she had not.

He showed her two pages of pencilled notes, and read from the second page part of a statement which said:

"Union did not receive majority . . ."

Objections Cited.

Miss Farmer said that this statement was not her own conclusion, but merely one of several company objections. The two pages of the exhibit themselves said that the statement was one of several "objections" to the election. The CIO union received 266 out of a possible 531 votes.

Toland announced that nine additional women review attorneys would be called for questioning today. They are Evelyn Neilson Cooper, Helen Delin, Marcia Hertzmark, Margaret Holmes, Helen Humphrey, Ida Klaus, Ann Landy, Edna Loeb, and Mildred Wainwright.

VILLAGE SOLON LOSES TO LAW

Bellville Man's Truck Forces State Patrolman Off Road, Lands in Court Here.

Lewis L. Livingston, 56, Bellville village councilman literally ran into the arms of the law yesterday.

It all happened when Livingston, driving a truck drove around a snow plow on U. S. route 42 south of Mansfield, crowded a state highway patrol car off the road.

The officers, en route from Columbus to Massillon, hailed Livingston before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch this morning on a charge of careless and reckless driving. He peaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Patrolmen E. H. Davey of Lorain and R. D. Alexander of Geneva, formerly stationed at the Mansfield sub-station, told the court that Livingston forced them off the highway and that they narrowly avoided going in the ditch.

Clyde Borden, R. D. 2, Bellville, lost his driving rights for 90 days and was given a $50 suspended fine when he was convicted on a charge of careless and reckless driving.

Borden, arrested following a collision with another car on East Fourth street, on Dec. 16, was ordered to pay $25 damage to John Ellsworth, 307 Purdy street, owner of the other car in the accident.

KEEPS SECRETS AFTER PARLEY

Burton, Bricker Discuss Possible Senator Candidates.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— What the governor of Ohio said to the mayor of Cleveland regarding politics is a tight-lipped secret between the two.

Both Gov. John W. Bricker and Harold M. Burton admitted they discussed possible U. S. senatorial candidates at a conference here yesterday but:

The governor reported, "I named over a list I had seen in the Sunday papers, but which did not include Burton."

The mayor commented "we reached no conclusions." Burton has been urged by friends to try for the Republican nomination for the seat held by Sen. Vic Donahey, a Democrat.

'GOODBYE, MR. CHIPS' VOTED YEAR'S BEST MOVIE BY CRITICS

The first foreign-made picture to win the distinction, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," heads Film Daily's annual poll for the "ten best pictures of the year," the trade paper announced today.

The poll was made of all professional film critics and reviewers in the country, with 542 participating and represents a cross section of opinion from every state in the nation. It is the oldest and largest poll of its kind in the motion picture industry.

The English-made picture rolled up a vote of 472 out of the possible 542. The "ten best" motion pictures for 1939, as selected by the poll were: "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington," "Pygmalion," "Wuthering Heights," "Dark Victory," "The Women," "The Wizard of Oz," "Juarez," "Stanley and Livingstone," and "The Old Maid."

Several intersting factors stand out in the 1939 poll. It is the first time that a foreign-made film ever topped the list—"Mr. Chips" was made in England by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer— and it is the first time that three pictures starring the same player have ever been included in the list of ten. Bette Davis was starred in "Dark Victory" and "The Old Maid" and co-starred with Paul Muni in "Juarez."

M-G-M had four pictures on the list and Warner Brothers were next with three.

"Mr. Chips" scored a higher vote than any of its predecessors—"Snow White" had 419 votes last year, while "Life of Emile Zola" carried 453 in 1937.

"The Rains Came," made from the Louis Bromfield novel, which had its premiere in Mansfield last summer, was 20th on the list. The "honor roll" of films that got 75 or more votes in the poll were "Stagecoach," "Young Mr. Lincoln," "Babes In Arms," "Love Affair," "Union Pacific," "On Borrowed Time," "Bachelor Mother," "Gunga Din," "Nurse Edith Cavell" and "The Rains Came."

Two of the big year-end pictures, "Gone With The Wind," and "Ninotchka," were released too late to be classed as 1939 products.

RESOLUTION PAYS TRIBUTE TO RUFUS H. KING; FUNERAL TODAY

Members of the board of trustees of the Soldiers and Sailors Memorial building today paid tribute to Rufus H. King, president of the board, who died Wednesday afternoon at his home, 117 West Second street. Funeral services for Mr. King were held this afternoon.

He served his country throughout the Spanish-American war. . . . He never betrayed a trust reposed in him.

"There, be it expressed as the sentiment of this board, that it is with truly saddened hearts we mourn the passing of this man whose like is seldom seen; that we gain cheer from the thought that his life was not in vain and its influence lives on and on, and its memory will inspire many to face life's battles more resolutely and more cheerily meet our daily tasks."

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

MRS. J. H. MAYBERRY and C. F. Davidson have been celebrating their birthdays together for more than 20 years, and they followed the custom again last evening. . . . Usually the dinners are at the Mayberry home, but yesterday's party was "on" Mr. Davidson at the Towne House—with many candles lighting the tiered cake that centered the table. . . . Bridge was the diversion, and the 14 guests presented the honored members with a shower of handkerchiefs. . . . Mrs. Mayberry, whose birthday is on Jan. 7, and Mr. Davidson, who was born on Jan. 13, began these annual celebrations while both families were living in Marion—and have continued the practice since coming here.

As I've said before, everyday seems to bring news of another engagement in town. . . . Violet Richardson, program secretary at the Y. W. C. A., recently received a diamond ring from Ernest R. Siefkin of Burbank, Cal.—since she received it through the mail, I'll wager it was probably the most exciting package she'll ever get that way! Mr. Siefkin is an electrical engineer with the Lockheed Aircraft corporation in Burbank.

Mansfield friends of Mrs. W. W. Ankenbrand (her husband was formerly superintendent of schools here) were disappointed this week, when a visit she had planned with them had to be cancelled. . . . Mrs. Ankenbrand had been visiting with her family in Marietta, and planned to come to Mansfield for a few days—but a telegram conveyed the news that Dr. Ankenbrand, now superintendent of schools in Yonkers, N. Y., had been taken ill at home, so she cancelled her trip here and hastened back east.

SOME PEOPLE have all the luck! Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hines are leaving tomorrow morning to drive to Miami, Fla. . . . On Jan. 21 they will board a clipper ship at Miami for Puerto Rico—they're planning to spend about two weeks on the island, with a stop-over of several days in Haiti on the return trip.

And speaking of southern vacations, Mrs. Charles Hoffman returned recently from Florida, where she spent several weeks with Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Schettler and their sons, Jack and Dick—they were staying in Hollywood, you know, but took many short trips to other points of interest in the sunshine state. . . . Henry Talmage is also back from Hollywood now, but Mrs. Talmage is planning to remain there until spring—and upon her return the Talmages, who formerly resided in Mt. Gilead, will move into their new home on Edgewood road.

THE MORNING MAIL brought news from Northwestern university concerning Barbara Kerr, daughter of Mrs. Thomas A. Kerr. . . . She has just been selected as a district representative of the "Wildcat Council," whose purpose is to provide information about the university to prospective students.—The council also serves as an orientation agency for new students before they arrive at the school. . . . The council is headed by an executive committee of six members, with 20 students serving as chairmen of the geographical districts. . . . Barbara, who's a junior at the university, is enrolled in the school of commerce and is a member of Chi Omega sorority. . . . She has been actively engaged in newspaper work on the Daily Northwestern staff and was a member of the homecoming football committee this past year.

AND IN CONCLUSION: Steve Olin (whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Olin) has just been appointed to the ticket committee of the junior prom, which will be held on April 13 at DePauw university in Greencastle, Ind. . . . Mrs. Otto Kline left this week for Arizona—she is driving out to spend the winter.

A display of antique lamps was presented by Mrs. Guy E. Shawk yesterday before members of the Berean Bible class of the South Main Street Evangelical church who met at the home of Mrs. Arthur Eckert, 299 South Main street. She told the group that some of the lamps, which were originally used in religious ceremonies, were more than 2000 years old. She had articles from Spain, India, China, Holland and Germany.

Mrs. O. J. Baker and Mrs. E. C. Jenkins gave readings. Mrs. Harry Thompson, 32 Prospect street, will entertain Feb. 1.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Ann Dupre and Miss Sue Kozik yesterday when Mrs. Clara Ritter, 33 Vennum avenue, entertained members of the Lucky 13 class of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. Mrs. Anna Lantz was associate hostess.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Dicky tucked a hand companionably under my elbow and guided me down the steps of the porch toward the tennis court.

"All right," he said, grinning. "Shoot the works!"

"I'm going to begin at the beginning," I said. "Otherwise, you won't be able to understand the cause of my mirth."

"Something Katie said, I'll bet a frayed necktie," Dicky sagely observed.

"I won't take you," I returned, and forthwith told him as briefly as possible of Olina's secret phone call to Philip Veritzen, of my momentous interview with Queen Olga and the confidences I had retailed to her, of the queen's decision to marry Philip Veritzen, of her request to summon Olina and her second one for ice.

"Which brings me to Katie," I said, and told him of our faithful helper's "dee-duction" concerning Queen Olga, and her comment upon the "queen's old boy friend."

"No wonder you were in stitches," Dicky gasped when he had recovered from his first paroxysm of laughter. "Pity old Phil couldn't have heard her," and he was off again in another paroxysm.

"Tell me," I said in a hurried whisper, for we were very near the tennis court where Mary and Olina were engaged in a spirited battle; "do you think I did wrong in betraying Philip Veritzen's confidence?

"Theoretically, you've violated so many social canons that at this second you're virtually a pariah," my husband said teasingly. Then he paused impressively and added, with a serious face turned toward me:

"But, practically speaking, you've straightened out two or three mighty crooked paths, and you ought to be mighty proud of yourself. I'm proud of you Mrs. Fixit."

"Thank you," I said smiling at him. We had time for nothing more, for with a pettish exclamation, Olina threw down her racquet and, running to the net, shook hands with Mary.

"I'll never be able to beat you," she said, laughing, but with a disappointed note in her voice. "I'm not going to try any more."

"Oh yes you are!" Mary said generously. "You're going on until you beat me. You can, if you only think so. In the vernacular, temporarily I've 'got your number,' that's all. But here are Aunt Madge and Uncle Dicky. Do you want the court?"

"No," Dicky said emphatically, and your Aunt Madge is the bearer of a message to Garcia, or words to that effect."

Both girls looked at me attentively, and I hurried to explain.

"Your mother wishes you to come to her room immediately," I said, addressing Olina.

"You don't know why she wants me, do you?" Olina asked, patently too anxious and nervous to use her usual elaborate courtesy.

"I think she said something about wishing you to help her dress," I said, and regretted the speech the next instant when Olina shot a frankly suspicious look at me, and then said hurriedly:

"Please excuse me. I must go at once."

She set off almost at a run for the house, and Mary's eyes were bright and curious as they watched her.

"Whatever does that mean?" she asked, half to herself.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DO WHAT HE WANTS

If your partner, who showed general weakness in the bidding, eventually doubles the opponents' contract, you know he is counting mainly on his holding of trumps, especially if you are short of them. Your job during the defense, then, is to help protect him from being end-played by the declarer. One way to help him is by leading through the declarer a suit which both he and your partner can ruff, if such a condition has developed.

East bid 1-Heart to start this deal, South 1-Spade, North 2-Clubs, East 2-Hearts, South 3-Diamonds, East 3-Hearts and then North 3-Spades, which West doubled. East overtook the heart K lead with the A, led the Q and then the J. South ruffed with the Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable).

8 and West overruffed with the 10. He returned the diamond 2 to the A.

Here was where East slipped. If he led another heart, West would have been sure to get two more trump tricks, setting the contract two. But he returned his diamond 9. The declarer took that, cashed the spade A, ran two more diamonds, collected the two top clubs, then led the spade 9 from dummy, playing the 3. West won this with his J, then had to lead from his spade Q-5 into declarer's K-6.

East should have read his partner as having at least five trumps, as if declarer held six he would have rebid them before showing diamonds. Though a fourth round of hearts might have furnished a ruff and discard for the declarer, that danger was not so great as the one of jeopardizing his partner's trumps holding by not leading them.

Returning hearts then would have set the contract two tricks instead of one.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, January 13.

According to the lunar transits, this should be a rather lively and successful day, with much stirring in the direction of launching new programs of a fairly ambitious order. These should succeed by sharp initiative and aggressive measures, in which an element of novelty, innovation or experiment has a determining force, particularly in attracting financial backing or friendly support of influential personages.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which there is good promise of launching new propositions, of importance, with the co-operation or financial support of those in prestige and power. Novel things, inaugurated with ingenuity, boldness, aggressiveness and practical initiative, should flourish.

A child born on this day may have much talent and initiative, with executive and organizing ability, as well as creative powers and ingenuity.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

It was on the tip of Fabienne's tongue to say that she'd step outside and hail a taxi when Chris said she must go out and get word to Larry. She bit her lip to keep from speaking sarcastically. It wasn't really the sick girl's fault that Fabienne's nerves were frayed to the breaking point. Chris was not accountable for much that she said and did.

True, her fever had abated, but she coughed often and her cough was hard and dry, and each time that it ripped from her throat, Fabienne's feeling of alarm increased.

"There's still some mustard left," hse said. "I'm going to mix some paste and put on your chest."

"It feels sore," Chris said. "But I don't care. It's only necessary to get through to Larry."

"I will, just as soon as I can," Fabienne told her.

"You could take the car right now. The snow has let up. Perhaps he could get out here tonight."

Fabienne ran to the window. It was dark. Dark as midnight. Only the ground was light. The winter night was upon them. Another night, Fabienne knew, that they'd have to spend in the country because she couldn't get her car over those roads through which she had plowed, slipping into deep ruts.

* * *

She was beginning to be very hungry, and visions of steaming food made her feel dizzy. On the pantry shelf there was only one can of soup left, a tin of asparagus and one of corned beef hash. She'd used all the condensed milk for Sonny.

Resigning herself to a supper of stale crackers and cold asparagus of a pale hue, she opened the last tin of soup for Sonny, heated it and broke up half of her crackers into the mixture. She doubted if corned beef hash was invalid's food, but that was all there was for Chris. If they were marooned much longer, they'd have to get along on a diet of oatmeal.

The radio was on a table beside Chris' cot. When Fabienne came in with a tray that contained the mustard plaster for Chris' chest, as well as her dinner, she was sitting up, fiddling with the dial. "I can't get anything at all. Do you supose I broke it, turning it off so abruptly."

"It doesn't matter," Fabienne answered wearily. "The less we know, the less we'll have to worry about. Chris, you must keep covered! After we take this plaster off, in twenty minutes, you'll be in danger if you get another chill."

"Make the fire nice and bright, Fabienne."

Fabienne slapped the plaster on Chris' chest and pulled all the blankets over her. "Maybe if we keep the room dim you can go back to sleep again," she said. It was better to have Chris think she wanted dimness, rather than let her know that the wood pile was down to six logs.

"I don't want to go to sleep," Chris said hoarsely. "I want you to go for Larry."

"Now, look here, Chris. I'm running this show. I'll go for Larry as soon as I can. In the first place, I've got to dig the car out. There's no garage here and I had to leave it out in the snow. It looks like—well, never mind. Anyway, I'm just as anxious to get out as you are. So don't plague me about it."

"I don't want to plague you, Fab. You've been wonderful! But you must realize how I feel.

"I realize how you feel, all right. I don't feel so darn good myself. Come here to me, Sonny. Auntie Fabienne is going to get you ready for bed."

* * *

"Why won't you let him come to me?" Christine whined.

"Because," Fabienne informed her. "I'd like them to still find him healthy and not down with your cold. I might get a couple of years off my sentence for taking care of you. Stop talking, Chris. Let me think!"

Chris subsided, awed into silence by the outbreak Fabienne had been unable to control. She watched the other girl for a long time. Fabienne sat with her head in her hands, lost in morose conjecture that produced no practical ideas.

After a little while she got up and took the flashlight off the mantle and went into the room Bill said he used as a lab.

It looked more like a junk room to her, she thought, flashing the light over the shelves of dusty colored bottles and chemical apparatus on a workman's shelf. There was fishing tackle and some old rubber boots thrown down in a heap of rope in one corner. And there, as if wishing had made it true, was a heavy coal shovel.

She pulled the rubber boots out and put the shovel under her arm and went back into the living room.

Chris watched her silently while she pinned up her slacks and shoved her feet into the big men's boots. It was an awkward costume she achieved, but at least she wouldn't be in danger of getting a cold like Chris. Picking up the shovel, she went to the door. "I'm going to see what I can do about digging out the car," she said, letting herself out.

The shovel weighed a ton in her hands, unaccustomed to lifting anything heavier than a few pounds. She pushed as much of the snow off the roof of the car as she could reach with the shovel. Then, with her hands in a pair of Bill's old gloves, she pushed more of it away from the side of the car, freeing the door. Then she tackled the snow packed around the wheels.

Her hands felt raw and the small of her back burned to the point where she felt it would break, half hoping it would, and she could sink into the snow in delicious coma. When she finished, it was after ten and, though the car was free, it was impossible to move it into the road. The snow had miraculously blown fairly clear of the drive. And had she not known the condition of the road, she would have backed into it.

She threw the shovel into a snowbank, threw the gloves after it, and dragged her aching body back into the house.

Christine was once more asleep and the fire was down to embers in the fireplace. She had to use two of her precious logs to build the fire up again. Could it have been only last night that she was planning to join Nicky and Bill and Ellen somewhere for supper at this hour?

If she dozed and kept her mind on the importance of waking to watch the fire, she could keep it going until the morrow, and hope—with a prayer—that someone would pass the house and give her a ride into the village.

She bent over Chris and listened to her breathing. It was easier now. It would be safe to leave her in the morning if she could leave the house warm.

* * *

Dying for sleep, she put on her coat again and dragged three of the wooden chairs through the door and out into the dark, where she would not disturb Chris. There she broke them apart, stamping on them, hammering them apart with strength that must have come from her soul. Her body felt incapable of breaking a match stick.

With the fuel problem temporarily settled, she fell instantly into a death-like sleep.

When she woke, Christine said, "There was a snow plough here around six."

With a groan as she tried to move her stiffened muscles, Fabienne got to her feet. "If only you'd awakened me," she said crossly, getting into her crumpled clothes. "Stay in bed, Chris, until I get back. I'm going to drive into the village."

She was not going to drive in that morning. There was no answering buzz when she turned on the ignition. The battery was as dead as her immediate hopes.

Huddled miserably and furiously over the wheel, she said to herself, and some Higher Being, "I've GOT to do SOMETHING!"

And then she was aware that she was staring at an old aerial projected from the roof. It meant something to her. What was it? Something Bill had said about Channing going over to Danbury to see a guy who had a little ham radio outfit. The name of the man. What was it? Willis!

She jumped out of the car, not bothering to close the door after her, and ran toward the house.

NOVEL BY EXILED GERMAN AUTHOR ON LIBRARY LIST

Mann's 'Royal Highness' Has Old German Empire for Its Setting.

Thomas Mann, distinguished man of letters and exiled from his native Germany by the Nazis, is the author of a novel which is included on this week's new fiction at the Public library. Mann is scheduled to speak before two Ohio audiences this winter; at Delaware on Feb. 7 and at Toledo.

ROYAL HIGHNESS by Mann is an English translation of a novel first published in 1916 and reissued last month. This story of a prince was written in the author's youth, intended as a parody on moral and political problems. The time of the novel is 1905, the setting, the German Empire, the theme, the conciliation of individual and social demands in the human being. It is a fairytale story of royalty with a happy ending.

IF NOT VICTORY, by Frank Olney Hough, author of Renown, is the story of Westchester County, New York in the American Revolution. Abe Kronkyte, a 19-year-old Quaker youth, deserts his family and joins the Continental army, becoming a guide on the general's staff. The book shows vividly the meaning of war to the non-combatant.

DEVIL TAKES A HILL TOWN, by Charles G. Givens is a mixture of folk comedy and farce, a sort of Tennessee hillbilly "Green Pastures." The struggle between capital and labor is shown, with God and the Devil in the persons of mountain men.

Other fiction: MR. CLUNK'S TEXT, Bailey; TRENT INTERVENES, Bentley; SEASCAPE, Carfrae: STATION WAGON SET, Cuthrell.

MEN AGAINST HITLER - by Fritz Max Cahen, adapted, with an introduction by Wythe Williams, containis the observations and experiences of a young German diplomat who witnessed the signing of the Treaty of Versailles. He tells of the men who are Hitler's aides and of the men who have striven to arouse Germany and warn its people of the danger of Hitler's regime.

Describes Nazi System.

NEW GERMAN EMPIRE by Franz Borkenau describes the working of the Nazi system and sees in it a challenge to our whole western civilization. This author says that the Nazi world revolution can succeed only if the moral, religious, and political impulses of democracy are weak.

EUROPE ON THE EVE, by Frederick Lewis Schuman relates the crises of diplomacy during the years from 1933 through 1939. The author, professor of government at Williams College, feels that Americans should face facts frankly and so he explains the methods by which recent political coups in Europe have been attained.

Other non-fiction: ART OF ENJOYING ART, McMahon; HAVE WE AN AMERICAN ART? Jewell; ALASKA: LAST AMERICAN FRONTIER, Colby (Federal Writers' Project Series); ICELAND: FIRST AMERICAN REPUBLIC, Stefansson: DO YOU WANT TO BECOME A BANKER? Crook: TIME STUDY FOR COST CONTROL, Carroll; NEW TECHNIQUE OF SCREEN WRITING, Lane: SHIP'S HUSBAND: GUIDE TO YACHTSMEN IN THE CARE OF THEIR CRAFT, Calahan: TRAILS OF A PAINT-BRUSH, Brewer: UNCLE LAWRENCE, Warner.

Group Says War An Ominous Sign For Glamour Girl

NEW YORK—(INS)—The coming of war is an ominous sign for the glamour girl, with her "oomph" and "lackadaisical allure," according to a poll taken here of ten alumni of the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts.

The alumni, prominent artists and designers, predicted that, as was the case in 1915, the country will turn against the clinging-vine type in favor of the girl that is useful as well as pretty.

Said Joseph B. Plate, Hollywood movie designer:

"The wide-eyed, long-bobbed, dead-pan prettiness of the typical debutante or Hollywood glamour girl is as out of place in a wartime atmosphere as Hitler's mustache on Shirley Temple."

The group cited five examples of the wartime ideal. Eve Curie, Greta Garbo, Paulette Goddard, Alice Marble and Helen Hayes.

READING RECORD

LEBANON, N. H.—(INS)—A new record of 13 hours, 20 minutes reading time for the King James version of the new testament is claimed by Mrs. Jennie Paddleford, Mascoma, a member of the Lebanon Christian Science church. She read the new testament at intervals but kept track of her reading time.

Magazine's Poll Lists Sentiment As to Prohibition

CHICAGO—(INS)—Although 10,000 of the 40,000 American communities are operating under alcoholic prohibition, sentiment against liquor abuses does not appear to presage the return of national prohibition.

This was disclosed in a nationwide poll of young men conducted by "Future," the magazine sponsored by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

While 5,000 of the 7,000 local option elections held since 1933 went dry, the chamber's poll indicates that 84 per cent of those replying would vote against prohibition if it was presented as a national issue. Commenting on its poll, the magazine said:

"It appears that local-option prohibition is one thing and national prohibition is something else again."

While 13 per cent of those replying favored abstinence, the other 87 per cent believed the teaching of moderation is the best method of combating liquor abuses, according to the poll.

The poll also disclosed that bootlegging is general in "dry" areas and that drinking among persons under 21 years is more general in restricted territory than in places where liquor can be obtained legally.

HOUSEWIVES GET TIPS.

LOS ANGELES —(U.P.)— Dr. D. E. Beaman, addressing the American Pressive Chiropractic Association here, bluntly told housewives how to do their work, if they want to avoid ills that result purely from the nature of their work and their wrong way of doing it. His panacea was "rest more, eat five small meals a day instead of three big ones, pile up your dishes for the entire day and then do them at one dish washing session."

BIT OF JAPAN TO BLOOM

MARYSVILLE, Cal. —(U.P.)—The famous Japanese flowering cherry trees that have attracted millions of tourists to Washington, are soon to have rivals here. One hundred of the trees have been presented to the city by the Japanese-American Citizens League of the four surrounding counties who imported them from Japan.

Hang on to the old friends until you see how the new bunch is going to pan out.

BILLFOLDS IN MAILBOXES.

ST. LOUIS —(U.P.)— Empty billfolds figure prominently among non-mail matter emptied from mail boxes by postmen here. Postal authorities say it apparently is a professional touch of pickpockets to place the pocketbooks in the boxes after removing the money but leaving identification cards.

Vote on Defense Bill to Test House Economy Today

LAUNCH MOVE TO PARE ARMY AND NAVY FUND

Economy Block Proposes New Slashes in $267,000,000 Emergency Budget.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The first actual economy test of the new session of congress was scheduled today in house action on the $267,000,000 emergency national defense bill, which provides for expansion of the army and navy.

Despite indications of strong sentiment for preparedness, some members of the house economy bloc planned to seek to reduce the total of the bill.

The effort to place the house on record for reductions in President Roosevelt's budget was expected to be led by a bipartisan group headed by Reps. Clifton Woodrum (D) Virginia, and John Taber (R) New York, in charge of the measure.

"While the appropriations committee reported the bill with a reduction of but $4,801,615 under the budget estimates, it was understood that amendments would be offered on the floor to reduce the total still further," said Taber. "There are many places where reductions can be made. There is a lag in enlistments in the army and navy, and this alone makes p ssible a reduction."

The measure carries $116,218,345 for the war department and $145,082,238 for the navy department. The appropriations were sought by the president to pay for expansion of the army and navy and other governmental services ordered when he declared a proclamation of a limited emergency last fall.

* * *

INCREASES ORDERED

The president ordered the enlisted strength of the army raised from 210,031 to 227,000 men. He ordered the navy's enlisted strength raised from 116,100 to 145,000 men, and an increase in the National Guard to 251,000 officers and men.

Expansion of the coast guard because of neutrality patrol duties, addition of 155 G-men in the federal bureau of investigation, and added funds for army maneuvers on a large scale are also included in the bill.

Meantime, Chairman Vinson (D) Georgia, of the house navel affairs committee, gave his full backing to the separate $1,300,000,000 naval expansion bill asked by the navy department.

Last night when Nick Mott, 297 Sturges avenue, returned home, he was astounded to see his double standing on his porch. The "double" was a snow man which neighbors claim was an exact duplicate of Mott's head and features, and the figure was life-size. The snow project, which was done in Mott's absence, held the attention of neighbors during the early evening. The life-like figure was built by Mrs. Tom Dorsey of 295 Sturges avenue, assisted by her sister, Miss Beatrice Boose. It was her first job of sculpturing.

Canton Girl Returns, Husband To Fight Bigamy Charges.

CANTON —(INS)— Annie Hutchinson was back at her home in Canton today just six weeks after she disappeared with Donald Stone, 27, who she married in Youngstown several days before.

The 18-year-old high school senior returned from Pittsburgh, where she, Stone, his mother and another woman were found by Canton Detective Henry Armstrong.

Stone, against whom Mrs. Annie Marshall, Miss Hutchinson's mother, filed a bigamy charge, remained in Pittsburgh, announcing he would fight extradition.

Miss Hutchinson said she went to Pittsburgh with Stone when she first disappeared. She wrote two notes to her mother, she said, but knew nothing of a note demanding $2,000.

BACKS COUNTY T. B. HOME PLAN

Farm Bureau Resolution Calls on Commissioners to Study Proposal Carefully.

Although county commissioners have temporarily given up their plan to purchase or build a sanitarium for tuberculosis patients, the Richland County Farm Bureau board of directors today had adopted a resolution urging the county to establish its own convalescent home.

The resolution was passed by the board of directors on the recommendation of Neil S. Robinson, member of a Farm Bureau committee appointed several weeks ago to study the question of a T. B. sanitarium.

It said: "We urge the county commissioners to give careful study to establishment of a local hospital or convalescent home for the county's T. B. patients."

The commissioners and county T. B. advisory board recently voted to defer action on the purchase or construction of a sanitarium until next year.

The Farm bureau directors chose O. E. Wells of Bloominggrove township; C. R. Mengert, Monroe township, and L. L. Rinehart, Sandusky township, as delegates to the annual meeting of the Ohio Wool Growers' association in Columbus Jan. 30 and 31.

Alternates are W. Paul Steward, Madison township; Thomas C. Crabbe, Weller township, and Otto Strine, Sharon township.

GARBAGE DEPARTMENT REPORTS DEFICIT FOR EIGHTH YEAR IN ROW

Mansfield's municipal garbage department showed an operating deficit of $131 in 1939, figures compiled by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley disclosed today. It was the eighth consecutive year that its expenditures have exceeded its revenue.

The department, which is intended to be self sustaining, last showed a profit in 1931, records reveal. The deficit in 1938 was $390.

Kelley pointed out, however, that there still is a surplus of $6,988 in the garbage fund, a balance built up in previous years.

Purchase of a new garbage truck, authorized by city council last summer, at a cost of $2,294, was given as one of the reasons for the increased expenditures of the department in 1939 and the subsequent deficit.

The auditor also explained that the setting up of a separate department for the sewage system nearly three years ago when the new treatment plant was erected, boosted operating costs as both departments previously had operated as one unit.

During the past year collections from the garbage service totaled $34,371 as compared with $32,329 in 1938, an increase of $2,042.

Expenditures increased from $32,719 in 1938 to $34,508 during the past 12 months.

Reflecting improved business and industrial conditions during the past year, the department's active accounts totaled approximately 4,000 on Dec. 31 as against approximately 3,600 at the close of the previous year.

Lester Linham, superintendent of the garbage disposal plant in his annual report said that 2,708 tons of garbage were collected last year; that 8,542 cubic yards of rubbish was taken up; that 371 leal animals were incinerated, and that 206 tons of coal was used to operate the incinerator.

STATE TO HELP CITY MEET BIG DEFICIT IN '49

Welfare Director Asked to Find New Revenue Source After Mayor Talks to Bricker.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Governor Bricker today turned over to Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood the task of finding possible new sources of revenue that would bring the city of Cleveland an additional $1,500,000.

That is the amount officials of Cleveland say they need to offset an anticipated deficit in their 1940 relief budget.

At a conference with the governor, Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland disclosed the city's relief needs this year would be $6,500,000, approximately $300,000 less than the amount spent in 1939.

Despite the anticipated shortage in the relief fund, Mayor Burton expressed confidence, following the conference, that his city would be in "much better shape" during the current year than it had been in 1939. He indicated increased industrial production and WPA activity probably would take hundreds off the relief rolls.

Explains Deficit.

In his report to Bricker, Burton pointed out that last year the city's relief expenditures totaled $8,196,274, including unpaid bills from the previous year. Actual relief payments, he said, were $6,855,909.

The mayor added the estimated relief needs for this year totaled $6,500,000, plus unpaid bills totaling 572,043, making a total of $7,072,043.

Burton, in explaining the expected deficit, pointed out experts had figured total revenue for relief purposes would not be more than $5,072,043 in 1940. He said that included the $2,795,000 the city expected to obtain from the state.

The Cleveland mayor said he and the governor did not discuss the question of calling a special session on relief this year.

PLAN REUNION

Rainbow Vets to Have Dinner and Theater Party.

Members of Luther Swigart chapter, Rainbow Division association, met last night with their wives, in Memorial building and made plans for a reunion dinner on Jan. 27, and a theater party at the Ohio for the opening of the picture "The Fighting 69th."

The dinner is in charge of a committee made up of Paul A. Williams, Charles C. Flood and Port Griffith. All Rainbow veterans division in this section of the state will be invited to attend.

A section of the theater will be reserved for the Rainbowers. "The Fighting 69th," with James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and George Brent, revolves around the Rainbow division in France, specifically the 165th New York regiment, which was brigaded with Ohio's 166th regiment.

After the business session last night, which was presided over by the new president, Harry Sir Louis, an oyster supper was served by F. Thane Shaw.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Dies Turns Tables On His Critics By Excellent Report On Committee Work

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The report of the Dies committee has received much approval, rising in some cases to the pitch of cheers, but some of the standard New Deal package goods dispatches out of Washington have taken a peculiar attitude in their embarrassment.

Dies and his committee were expected to turn out in their report a masterpiece of clumsy absurdity, but he crossed up the propagandists of the administration by delivering something that was distinctly major league.

Dies was heckled in his own hearings and harassed constantly in print by a campaign of ridicule, for most of which, it may readily be admitted, he furnished plenty of raw material.

But when he unexpectedly delivered a good report he was attacked with fresh vigor, obviously inspired by chagrin, on the ground that he had not prepared the report himself alone.

It was also reported—and with such similarity of detail as to suggest a propaganda pipe line—that the more liberal members of the committee made a chump of Mr. Dies one day by proposing that now was the time to name the Communists in the New Deal and that Dies, thus confronted, could not make good.

* * *

It is immaterial whether Dies himself prepared the report or employed a ghost, and the New Deal propaganda corps should be the last to criticize any man on such grounds in view of the admitted fact that President Roosevelt himself often obtains several drafts of a speech or state paper from members of his political household and selects one or a combination of several as the version for which he will take the credit or the blame.

This is a practice which has been defended by the New Deal claque with such enthusiasm and skill that it has received public approval. Therefore, Dies was only following distinguished precedent, and the merits of the report cannot be used against him.

* * *

As to his inability to name any Communists in the New Deal, there is more to be said than merely that he wouldn't or couldn't name names when and if he was challenged or put on the spot. He could no doubt have named many individuals who have all the characteristics of Communists and who, up to the invasion of Poland and Finland by the Russian army, had nothing but praise and excuses for the Stalin government and little else but abuse and contempt for the American system.

He could have pointed out that when Harold Ickes found occasion to deliver speeches he turned up as the guest of the Lawyers' guild and the Newspaper guild, both of which organizations have been strongly influenced and imposed upon by Communist agents.

* * *

Dies might have developed the fact that, although this administration has been opposed to Hitlerism from the very beginning, there had always been, until the Russian alliance with Germany, a generous tolerance for Communism and Communists. Communism, although indistinguishable from Hitlerism, was a meritorious experiment, but Hitlerism was a vile thing. No Nazi, imported or domestic, was welcome in the administration, either socially or politically, but individuals who lacked only Communist party cards to confirm their identity were welcome.

It will be recalled when Dies was investigating Nazi activities he was congratulated by the same press that was to slash at him a little later for using the same methods on the Communist conspiracy.

And it may be pointed out that on a previous occasion the same propaganda vigorously defended a 100 per cent New Dealer whose methods of investigation had been even more dangerous to civil liberties than those of the Dies committee. That one would be Senator Black of Alabama. But Senator Black was not run out of public life or even reproved for his ethics and methods.

On the contrary, amid cheers from the New Deal claque, this late backslid member of a night-riding and lynching organization was appointed to the United States Supreme court as one who would "liberalize" the court.

* * *

Dies was guilty of much awkward foolishness, but to those who condoned Black's methods of investigation and the deliberate degradation of the Supreme court intended and achieved by his appointment, he owes not even the courtesy of a contemptuous reply. Look at their hands.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

By BILL MORROW AND EDDIE BELOIN

(They write for Jack Benny—professionally. Today they're writing off a day of Robbin Coons' vacation.)

HOLLYWOOD—So there ARE things like vacations. We were beginning to think you just read about them in travel bureau folders—and statistics on crime. Try doing a radio show and a movie at the same time and you'll get the same slant, Robbin.

And try switching from radio writing to screen writing almost overnight, and your eyes will do an Alice-in-Wonderland a la Jerry Colonna. They drafted us from air to screen for Jack's "Buck Benny Rides Again" and we've both forgotten our addresses and home phone numbers.

The difference between air and screen writing is like the difference between bawling out a tough guy over the phone and scolding him face to face—you can get away with anything on the phone.

In the Benny air show you've heard of Carmichael the Bear. Carmichael at once popped into mind for the picture. So we wrote and wrote and wrote, pages of the film script, all featuring Carmichael. Proudly we handed the copy to Mark Sandrich, producer.

"Swell," said Sandrich. "I've always liked that bear. Where is he?"

* * *

SOMETHING died in us. For a year we had been writing stuff for Carmichael on the air show, and with Rochester helping we had convulsed (we hope) our audiences. Now we had to produce a bear—because seeing is believing, for film audiences. If Carmichael was written in as smacking Rochester down, then Carmichael had to smack Rochester down, in person.

Paramount searched three months. It seems that polar bears just don't work for a living. They get by with just looking tough in cages. They don't like people. Then a talent scout turned up with a bear—a lady bear, because boy polars are too fierce.

That was only our first difficulty. On the air our pal Jack can gallop up (sound effects: cocoanut shells plopping against sand in a box), holler "Whoa!" and "dismount" in front of the mike with absolutely no wear and tear on the seat of his chaps. But can he get by with that in the movies? Poor Jack.

We did the best we could for him, writing him out of one wild chase through canyons, but we couldn't spare him other ordeals in the saddle, even though he shoveled cigars at us and otherwise was really kind and sweet. In spite of our frantic re-writing he had to take his meals off the mantle for five days after the opening scene.

* * *

BUT don't get the idea that radio writing is simple, either. In many ways it's harder than movie writing.

The screen, with its visible and audible attractions, allows for more subtlety in writing and action than radio. A gag which has to be given a careful "build-up" on the air can be "sold" by the simple lifting of an eyebrow in a movie scene.

Thanks, Robbin, for this opportunity—and for your kind offer to pinch-hit for us when we decide to take a vacation, but we warn you, doing a radio show and a movie script at the same time is a lot like rubbing your stomach with one hand and patting your head with the other—ever try that?
